Chamber Says Plan Ignores Quad-Cities' Need to Live, Grow

Believes Ban on Growth Would Jeopardize Viability, Stampede Firms and Residents

(Editorial on Page 26.)

The local area has a right and a need to live and grow, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce board members commented Tuesday night in unanimously voting to urge amendment of the proposed Madison County Land Use Plan.

"Building a fence around us in the form of an unchangeable 'green belt'—would add to the danger of a tax spiral like that which plagues East St. Louis."

"In this city, firms and people moved to escape the rising tax burden, their departure then increased the individual tax load and this in turn drove more of them away."

"Those who fear the tax impact of new developments 'aint got nothing yet as long as we put it," a Chamber director commented Tuesday evening.

"Accepting the proposed County Plan and its severe ban against this community would put a stranglehold on the Quad-Cities, arbitrarily choking off any hope of normal growth and creating far worse tax problems."

The Chamber board wants the County Plan changed to permit reasonable Quad-City expansion before the plan is acted upon at any and all levels, including the federal level.

A federal official has urged county adoption of the plan unchanged and has said he will force the county to do so.

The Madison County Board has never formally accepted or rejected the 166-page plan but may do so April 28 or at a later meeting.

A chief advocate of the County Plan on Tuesday urged the East-West Gateway Council's environmental task force to route the plan directly to the Madison County Board. However, the task force decided to seek a County Board response.

The Chamber directors' discussion brought out the positive side of the local community and concluded that it would be grossly unfair to the residents, taxpayers, workers and employers to shackle and thus doom the Quad-Cities.

"Bottomland challenges—whether soil condition, sewers, drainage or the cost of governmental services—can be solved through intelligent effort," a board member said.

"Although the public is being told by some people that further Quad-City development would be a threat to them, the fact is that the proposed County Plan is a much worse threat—to taxpayers, home owners, businessmen, government, job-seekers and everyone else."

The plan as it currently reads, issued in December 1969, calls for blocking Quad-City growth and encouraging growth atop the bluffs.

It calls for limiting Quad-City retail stores to a small, "convenience shopping" role that "will not become regional in character." It urges "regional commercial facilities" at Collinsville and Edwardsville.

County Board members without some sensible revision being pressured by the federal administrator and by investors—how unfair it would be to the Quad-Cities' present and future well being," a director commented.

Plan Aids Bluff Area, Dooms Southwest Part of County

The following statement was adopted as Tri-City Area Chamber of Commerce policy by the Chamber board of directors Tuesday night.

A proposed Madison County Plan dated December 1969, although never adopted by the Madison County Board of Supervisors, has been cited as mandatory by a federal administrator, who warned that unless it prevails he will rule against even those construction grant requests not incompatible with the plan. The County Plan incorporates by reference previous planning documents.

With a bi-state regional land use and transportation plan currently being developed and likely to make reference to the Madison County Plan, the specific provisions of the County Plan loom large in their impact on the Tri-Cities Area.

The bi-state regional plan is being prepared for the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, the coordinating agency which oversees development proposals involving federal funds. The chief official of St. Louis County delegates might exercise a high degree of control over future East-West Gateway Coordinating Council decisions.

Describing the Illinois portion of the metropolitan area as having a "frenzied image," the Madison County Plan takes an especially dim view of the Tri-City Area.

In Table 4B-10, Projected Population Changes for 1968 to 1985, it projects growth of only 17.1% for Granite City, 10.9% for Nameoki Township and 0.1% for Venice Township but projects 89.4% for Godfrey, 89.6% for Fort Russell, 81.9% for Collinsville and 81.9% for Edwardsville.

Such restricted growth in the Tri-City area and such unbridled growth atop the bluffs takes the position that present and future highway improvements justify forcing the bulk of new growth to the north and east and maintaining a "naturally created open space or green belt which divides the Tri-City Area from the developed areas of Collinsville, Maryville, Glen Carbon and Edwardsville."

The County Plan says that "the pressure for land development has not reached the point where this is prime for development," but it does not fully document this conclusion. It cites drainage inadequacies, much of which other authorities have attributed to the bluff area rather than to the Bottomland. And it criticizes soil factors which Madison County officials point out have been adequate to permit development of such major population concentrations as the existing Tri-City Area community.

In view of these points, the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce goes on record as disapproving with bias against the Tri-Cities Area and its surrounding territory. The Chamber of Commerce urges rejection by authorities at all levels of the 1969 Madison County Plan until it has been corrected to encourage, rather than to severely discourage, normal, proper and reasonable growth and development of the westernmost one-third of Madison County.

GC Airman Dies in Crash

Second Lieutenant Gary L. Ruebhausen, 24, a U. S. Air Force pilot, was killed Tuesday when the T-33 jet aircraft in which he was riding crashed on landing at Tynall Air Force Base in Florida.

Military funeral services will be conducted here Saturday.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Ruebhausen, 4012 Rode Ave., Tynall, Air Force officer was married to the former Miss Joan C. Rees, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Rees, 2228 Cleveland Blvd. He was a lifelong resident of Granite City.

Lt. Ruebhausen was not at the controls when the two-man jet crashed on the runway at the Florida base near Panama City. The Air Force captain

Valuation Is $300 Million

By HARRY BARNES

Press-Record Staff Writer

Local 1971 property assessments totaling $300,907,560 in the four townships of the Quad-City area—an increase of $10,940,130 over those of last year—were announced Tuesday by County Clerk Eulalia Holt.

A total valuation of $277,564,480 in all 24 townships of Madison County was announced at the same time. The new county assessment is $36,373,960 higher than the local valuation of $241,190,520 extended a year ago.

When railroad and capital stock values set by the state are added to the new county valuation, it will total $396,465,095—the highest in the county's history and only $5.5 million less than the $1 billion mark.

A transcript of the assessments has been certified to the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs which will evaluate the assessments and certify a multiplier to the county clerk's office. Extension of 1971 taxes, to be collected this year, will begin as soon as the multiplier is received, Miss Holt said.

The new Quad-City valuations include a total of $173,393,333 for Granite City Township, up $7,362,655 over last year's figure of $166,030,680. The figures announced this week do not include railroad and capital stock values which are set by the state.

Venice Value Down

Venice township is the only township in the county to receive a decrease in its property assessment. The 1971 total for Venice township is set at $36,401,975, a drop of $1,185,455 below the 1970 value totaling $37,587,430.

The 1971 valuations for Nameoki township total $40,175,100, up $4,095,005 over the 1970 assessments of $36,080,095. Chouteau Township has a new valuation of $26,675,130, an increase of $678,525 over the 1970 total of $25,996,605.

While no township breakdown of assessment figures was released, overall assessment totals for the county indicated all of the increase in this year's assessments occurred in real estate categories, with a substantial drop in personal property values.

Personal property assessments in all 24 townships were listed at $210,445,396, down $17,341,310 from the total of $227,786,706 last year.

Assessments on lands, however, total $208,149,190, an increase of $34,714,315 over the valuation of $173,434,875 for the 1970 tax year, while values on lots total $477,233,825, up $39,205,420 over the $438,028,405.

Rail Assessments Cut

Valuations on railroad property assessed locally total $777,000, down $100,000 from the $877,000 assessed last year.

Heavy Damage In Windstorm

Severe thunderstorm, accompanied by hail and tornado force winds, reaching 85 mph in some areas, blackened the two-state metropolitan region late Tuesday afternoon and early evening.

The storm resulted in the death of a high school girl in St. Louis County and overturned mobile homes, caused power outages and smashed windows in the Quad-Cities. No injuries were reported in the local area.

Granite City's network of warning sirens was sounded at 4 p.m. and again at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

The overcast skies turned "pitch black" as Quad-Cityans turned on radios to hear a tornado had "pounded down" in Florissant, Mo., just a few miles across the river along Interstate 70.

The National Weather Service at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport said although some callers reported sighting funnel clouds, there was no evidence of a tornado touching down.

The storm, driven by winds estimated by forecasters at 85 mph, struck heavily in St. Charles County, Mo., where several persons were injured and swept into Madison County, causing property damage at wide-spread points.

Close to a half-inch of rain (4.5) fell in the Quad-City area on Tuesday and slightly more (.54 inch) was recorded at the Granite City locks yesterday. Up to two inches of rain fell in adjacent areas in the bi-state region.

Several local households reported windows smashed by hail and winds and tree branches were down on some city streets. At Arlington Heights subdivisions.

Stevenson to Review Needs Here Saturday; May Install Drainage Section at a Time

In an Intergovernmental Committee public meeting—made more timely by this week's rains—a gathering of 75 at the Nameoki Town Hall was urged last night to review drainage needs with U. S. Senator Adlai E. Stevenson III here Saturday.

Sen. Stevenson will be at the Officers' Club of the Granite City Army Installation at 1:30 p.m. Saturday to discuss hillside drainage and other drainage needs, State Rep. Horace Calvo (D, Granite City) announced.

Alexander of the Army Corps of Engineers and others spotlighted the possibility of expediting hillside drainage installation by constructing it in sections related to geographic basins.

With 135 square miles of bottomland and 78 miles of bluff area involved, and with federal appropriations limited, detailed planning might take five years, Alexander said.

Although proposed for several decades, hillside drainage was not authorized by Congress until 1965 and the initial funding did not take place until 1970, it was noted.

It was brought out that the state has indicated willingness to serve as the local-level sponsor, and Alexander ruled that Illinois meets both requirements—legal and financial capability. However, it would have to assume local-level jurisdiction, including the right to seek property rights-of-way.

The legislator stressed that persistent efforts have been made to end drainage inaction, and said the present bi-partisan support appears to brighten the prospects.

Pollution Pact Would Trim Air Emissions 90% - State Official

The hearing ended at 11:30 a.m. today after testimony by an economics expert and Quad-City residents. A date for issuance of a final decision was not set.

A proposed air pollution control program for Granite City Steel Co. would reduce particulate emissions by more than 90%.

And "the average amount of particulate matter in the air would, after completion of the program, be cut approximately in half," John J. Roberts, manager of the Air Pollution Control Division of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, said here in a statement to Illinois Pollution Control Board representatives.

The affidavit was presented by Fred C. Prillaman, enforcement service manager of the Bureau of Legal Services of the IEPA, during a public hearing which began Wednesday at the Civil Defense Building, 1411 Nineteenth St. A second session began at 10 a.m. today. The hearing is being conducted by the IEPCB to determine if the board should agree to a proposed settlement between Granite City Steel Co. and the IEPA on a program to reduce air pollution from the steel plant.

Samuel Lawton Jr., a member of the IEPCB, is serving as hearing examiner.

Attorneys for both sides seemed in agreement on the settlement plan at yesterday's session.

But statements submitted by several groups, including the new Granite City Air Pollution Control Department, indicated reservations as to the effectiveness of the program.

The $4,240,000 agreement proposed by the company will invest $4,000,000 in air pollution control equipment and establish a $240,000 scholarship fund for students in environmental studies at the University of Illinois.

Location of the scholarship fund was attacked by State Sen. Sam Vadalabene and others who felt the area would better be served if the funds were awarded to Southern Illinois University-Southwestern.

The agreement also calls for the steel company to post $3,670,000 in penal surety bonds to guarantee completion of a yearlong phase of the program within the specified times.

In his opening statement yesterday, Prillaman quoted a letter from Richard Yates, chairman of the Clean Air Coordinating Committee, calling the program "one of the most comprehensive in Illinois."

Speaking for the company, Randall E. Robertson, a Granite City attorney, termed the document "a settlement agreement Granite City Steel Co. is proud to be a part of."

He emphasized that the hearings yesterday and today were extensions of more than 30 hearings held here and in Chicago from January through September of 1971. He said a settlement was reached after the EPA had nearly completed its case and the defense had been able to present only one witness.

Robertson said more than 4,000 pages of testimony were transcribed and if the company had continued with its defense, an additional

Chouteau Town Electors Reject Road Tax

Voters at the Chouteau Township annual town meeting Tuesday night rejected a special tax for road purposes by a vote of 85 in favor to 80 against.

Three ballots were applied in a total vote of 138. Last year, the same proposal lost 63-13.

The tax proposal called for a levy of 16.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation in Chouteau Township.

Jim Estes, township highway commissioner, asked that the tax be passed, "because I need these funds for roads." About 140 persons packed the Fun & Sun Beach Resort Building for the annual meeting.

Estes explained that of about $96,000 budgeted for road work last year, he received only about $46,000.

"It's only money that was taken from me last year," Estes told the voters.

Approve Planning Fund
The voters approved the payment of $15,000 for engineering as the township share of planning for the proposed Nameoki, Chouteau, Granite City and Venice townships sewer program. The vote was 31 to 6.

Walter Sparks, township supervisor, explained that each township was to appropriate the same amount to guarantee completion of the project.

"If we do build the sewer, the money will be returned to the town fund. If we fail to build the sewer, the money will be forfeited as will $8,000 of the appropriated last year for the preliminary sewer study," Sparks said.

Several township residents complained that the vote on the sewer had not been taken until after voting on the road tax and most of those present left after the first vote.

Sparks read the annual financial statement for the township's five funds. The general road and bridge fund showed receipts during the year of $33,325, expenditures of $30,647 and a balance of $3,716, he reported.

Road Fund Costs
Receipts in the general road and bridge fund totaled

$37,072 and expenditures were $33,580, leaving a balance of $3,491, he said.

In the new equipment fund Sparks reported receipts totaled $19,902 and expenditures were $9,217 with a balance of $9,684.

Revenue in the town fund totaled $69,424 and expenditures totaled $56,743, leaving a balance of $12,680, Sparks said.

The general assistance fund statement showed $39,201 in revenue, $30,455 in expenditures and a balance of $8,707.

William T. Thoele, who was elected over Clifton Lash by a vote of 83 to 48, served as moderator.

$35,000 Air Pollution Grant Given SIU-SW

A $35,000 grant has been awarded to Southern Illinois University-Southwestern by the National Science Foundation to be used by Dr. Robert E. Kohn to continue research on air pollution for two years.

Kohn, an associate professor of economics in the Business Department, has developed an economic model for air pollution control in the St. Louis metropolitan airshed.

Kohn's model provides an empirical basis for evaluating control strategies and air quality goals, for examining interdependencies in the control of water, land and airborne pollutants, for estimating the impact of abatement expenditures on the regional economy and for relating pollution control to location theory.

Fire Plug Tap-Ons for New High School Agreed

The Granite City Board of Education approved an agreement Monday night in which the Mitchell Public Water District permits connection to its main at the new high school at Route 203 and Maryville Road.

The connection will be to an eight-inch water main for the purpose of a fire water line without metering and shall be used for fire fighting only. The school district will pay engineering charges to the firm of Sheppard, Morgan and Schwaab which is to review all plans prior to installation.

Also wishing to make use of the facility is the Bowland Lanes, located nearby. The board received a request from Jack Jachino, operator of the bowling alley, to tap onto the mains for installation of two fire plugs.

Board members were favorable to the request as the plugs would be located to provide additional protection to the school facilities but referred the request to the engineers and to the water district for opinions.

Other Business
In other business the board authorized a call for bids for comprehensive insurance coverage for all buildings, equipment, facilities and workmen's compensation in the school district.

In other business the board authorized a call for bids for comprehensive insurance coverage for all buildings, equipment, facilities and workmen's compensation in the school district.

tract. V. G. Anderson, comptroller, said bid invitations with specifications are being sent to 38 insurance vendors in the area, and will be open on May 22.

The current insurance policy will expire on June 24. Anderson commented that as a result of the high school auditorium fire it may be difficult to receive desired coverage.

Awarded a contract for labor and materials to the Bob Moss by Sign Co. to renovate the sign board at the high school for $1,468.00.

Was informed that the tentative budget adopted by the Special Education Co-op. Board totals $130,400, of which $41,750 may be reimbursed by the state. It is $11,000 less than a year ago as the co-op has eliminated two intern psychologists next year. It will be included in the district's tentative budget at a later date.

Approved a request by the Collinsville School District to have its new business manager spend several days with Anderson to familiarize him with school business operation.

Use of Facilities
Approved requests for use of facilities from Stalling's Cub Scouts, the Collinsville Junior High School for a Fun Fair April 23, Tri-City Park Tabernacle, Emerson PTA, Kirkpatrick Homes Club Scouts, the National Association for Gifted, the park district to distribute brochures on its summer programs through grade schools, and Nameoki Little League to set up a portable concession stand at the National School field during ball games.

Authorized trips by Al Wilson to the Reading Conference of American Newspapers Publishers Association May 5 in Indianapolis, Joe Fedora and Tully Heubner to travel to Brookline, Mass., to inspect a new all-weather track material, with a firm providing transportation, and Carl Macios, board president, and Donald Stucke, treasurer, to attend a meeting of the Large District Council on April 28-30.

Accepted gifts of two flowering trees from Girl Scouts at Logan School, young trees planted on city land at the old Army Depot for planting at churches and schools, and a 20x30-inch painting of Mitchell as it looked in 1917, painted by Elmer Gruen, the district's lead custodian, from a photograph of the school at that time. Gruen, a commercial artist, is now enrolled in a course in oil painting.

Attempted Burglary, Vandalism Occur Here

Attempted burglary and vandalism occurred at the home of Audrey Haggerty, 2554 Spalding Ave., while a police officer was on hand after receiving a report of an intruder at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday.

After hearing a noise in the basement or back room, the officer spotted someone running across the back lawn and started to give chase, but heard a crash in the front. Someone had placed the patrol car into gear and it ran up an incline into the garage door, springing it and breaking two windows. There was no damage to the patrol car.

tion 4,000 or more pages would have been added.

"We felt the best interests of the most would be served by a thorough examination of the pollution settlement. Granite City steel did not concede and does not concede it was guilty of any violation," Robertson stressed.

"Granite City steel is a citizen of the community and wants to be a good neighbor," he added.

He said the company has constantly been studying plans for adding pollution control equipment, "but prior to a recent date, much of the equipment was not available."

Both Robertson and Prillman defended the choice of the U. of I. for the scholarship fund, terming it "a total facility for the best use of the environmental dollar." Prillman said the university has "fine engineering, medical and public health departments, all of which play an important part in studies of the environment."

Two witnesses were called yesterday — Donald F. Cairns, vice-president of Granite City Steel, and Albert Bliss, metallurgical specialist in the Division of Air Pollution Control of the EPA.

Cairns testified that a part of the settlement already has been completed with even though the IPCB has not granted final approval to the agreement.

Among improvements already completed is a bag house to collect dust emissions from the sinter plant. He said a new larry car and coke oven charging system have been designed.

The company has contracted for designs of a high-energy wet gas scrubber from American Air Filter Co., Ltd., for the sinter plant which should be in operation about 1975, months after the settlement is approved.

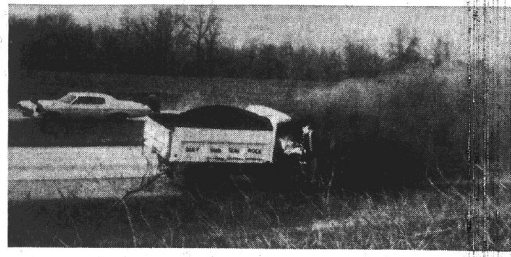

At baffle system and quench car fogging system also are being planned, he said.

Work and maintenance rules pertaining to the coke ovens, blast furnaces, sinter plant, basic oxygen furnaces, blooming and hot strip mills and steam generating plant are acceptable to the company, Cairns said.

Cairns also said the company conducted a study earlier this year on the economic effect of closing the Granite City facility.

Biss said control systems proposed in the agreement would be effective in decreasing pollution.

He said the timetable for completion of the projects was reasonable in all aspects except the equipment to control emissions from the quench tower, which may require more than the allotted six months to complete.

FLAMING TRUCK. The dirt hauling truck of Gene M. Lankford, South Roxana, burst into flames following a carburetor backfire at 1 p.m. Wednesday on Route 3 just south of St. Thomas Road. Mitchell volunteer firemen extinguished the blaze. The truck started burning again as it was being towed at Interstate 270 and Route 111, and firemen again were called to extinguish the fire. There were no injuries.

This morning, Robertson called the Rev. William J. Hogan, a member of the Society of Jesus, and an associate of Fordham University in New York City, to the stand. Father Hogan is an expert on the economics of pollution control. Robertson, the EPA control manager, was to be questioned this afternoon.

Erwin C. Hoelscher, technical secretary of the Granite City Air Pollution Control Board, said at yesterday's hearing that the proposed settlement "provides an approach which appears to offer good chances for specific improvement in the air quality in Granite City and particularly in the vicinity of the plant."

"It is recognized that some of the coke plant equipment installations are semi-experimental in nature, and success cannot be guaranteed. The planned improvements, however, are welcomed as they represent a constructive step in this critical area."

The Basic Oxygen Furnace has been a source of frequent and multitudinous complaints about discharges from the roof vents, precipitator outlets and dust handling collection systems since it was built and operations began.

"Some improvements may have been made, but emissions are still excessive in spite of assurances by the company that operating procedures and maintenance would be at the highest possible level."

"It is my opinion that operating and maintenance work rules will not correct this situation. A more positive control is definitely required."

"Concerning the stipulation that a scholarship fund be established at the University of Illinois by the company, it is commendable that private industry should provide funds to colleges to support environmental studies. However, if this is a completely voluntary action, it should not be part of this settlement.

If the establishment of such a fund is included in this stipulation, in lieu of a fine or penalty, I think it sets a very dangerous precedent.

"If it is allowed in this case, why should not every other person who is subject to a penalty for violation of the regulations also be permitted to make a similar payment to a college which would enhance his image and doubtless obtain a beneficial tax advantage?"

"If it is the desire of the Pollution Control Board to direct such a fund or payment to other than the Treasury of the State of Illinois, it is suggested that a method be found that will more immediately benefit people whose health and whose property is affected by these emissions," Hoelscher concluded.

Henry S. Bieniecki, chairman of the Granite City Air Pollution Board, said "Particulate monitoring near the Basic Oxygen Furnace shows readings grossly in excess of federal and state air quality standards."

He called for "explicit terms in this agreement to satisfy residents that emissions will be reduced to acceptable levels and that episodes will be drastically reduced."

"In Stipulation 7, the EPA is authorized to enter the property of Granite City Steel for inspection and investigation purposes."

"Since the staff of the local board will undoubtedly exercise forage for the investigation of operations and be far more accessible to complaints of local citizens, it would appear to be appropriate and practical to allow the EPA to have the authority to designate local air pollution officers to carry out inspections and investigations on behalf of the state."

"In Stipulation 8, it is unclear as to whether participation with other companies fulfills the total requirement to carry out a research program to evaluate the effectiveness of in-house pollution control equipment and methods."

"Such general participation does not appear to adequately and expeditiously meet the need of problems and episodes in the local plant. Thus, this language should be made more explicit with respect to a genuine in-house research effort.

"In Exhibit A, no provision is made for the approval by site or local offices of air pollution control operating and work rules for the coke ovens."

"Assignment of a supervisor to log upsets and emissions is desirable, but it would be more desirable if his responsibility were directed primarily at prevention."

"It is suggested that upsets be reported immediately to the local air pollution control board, then to a quarterly basis to the EPA."

"Quarterly statistics may be adequate for study by analysts of the EPA, but they are not desired in Granite City as a control of operations by the company to achieve satisfactory air quality or the results of the local community. These same comments apply to the operations paragraphs of all other systems."

"My observations indicate that supervision of the charging, pushing and quenching operations is not carried out with any significant effort to minimize emissions. It is my opinion that substantial reductions can be achieved with the present equipment if there were sufficient interest to do so."

"The Great Lakes Carbon Co. in South St. Louis does in comparably better with comparable facilities. The question remains as to why Granite City Steel has not achieved substantial emission reductions by instituting effective procedures with the present equipment and facilities."

Carl Buehler, chairman, speaking for the Sanitation and Pollution Committee of the Madison County Board of Supervisors, voiced doubts yesterday that $350,000 of money for environmental studies might be sent to the University of Illinois when we have urgent needs for the money in Madison County.

"We don't like to see our own money carried away to others who don't need it nearly as much as we do."

This area is ideal for studies on environmental problems. We have accumulated a number of problems here, and many industries causing pollution, and we have Southern Illinois University close by to help us.

"One of our biggest problems will be to filter out the insecticides and other toxic chemicals from water supplies. We have a tremendous problem about operation of landfills in the flood plain. We need that money here."

"We thank you for holding this hearing in Granite City so our own people understand what is happening."

Windstorm

sion, mailboxes were knocked down and house windows broken.

Hail completely covered the ground in Collinsville, creating drifts "several inches thick," and there were unconfirmed reports of funnel clouds west of Collinsville and east of O'Fallon. Power outages were reported in various areas.

Trailer Turned Over

The mobile home of Larry Clutts, 2500 Cayuga St., was picked up by the swirling wind, turned upside down and landed on top of a truck owned by Rno Zerkulien, 1341 Madison Ave., Madison.

Damage was estimated at $3,200 to the trailer, $2,000 to the contents and $600 to the truck. Clutts had moved the home to the site the day before and his garage was knocked down about five minutes before the incident occurred. Firemen and utility personnel went to the scene.

Wallace Elkins, 2914 Roosevelt Road, reported at 6:30 p.m. that his garage was knocked down onto the top of his auto parked inside. He said he heard the back door of the garage slam and, upon checking, found it had collapsed. It was being constructed at a cost of $1,700 and was completed except for installation of an overhead door.

Windows Smashed

Four plate glass windows at Tri-City Radio, 3130 Nameoki Road, were knocked out by the wind at about 5:30 p.m. Damage was estimated at $5,000. During a lull in the storm at 5:15 p.m., firemen were called to the site. The lightning struck the building, and Nameoki Road and Jill Avenue, where gasoline pumps ignited and burned.

The fire was not caused by the storm but by the backfire of an auto parked there. Flames could be seen for blocks, it was reported.

The owner, a Dupo resident,

Firemen used carbon dioxide and dry chemical extinguishers and a 50-foot booster line and were on the scene 30 minutes. An estimate of damage was to be made.

Power Off in Sections

John Blasingame, assistant to the Illinois Power Co. area service manager, said that lightning struck the Lexington substation cutting off power to 600 customers in the Parkview subdivision and in parts of Namsok and Ponton Beach from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Power also was out several hours in the Wilshire subdivision.

The Granite City Sewage Treatment plant also was without power for about one hour Tuesday during the storm until Illinois Power workmen switched the plant onto an alternate power source, it was learned.

At Holiday Mobile Home

Part of a mobile home on State Route 35, east of Granite City, two unoccupied trailer homes were blown over by the high winds. One, owned by Charles Crain, was totally destroyed.

Several homes had exterior metal stripping ripped off; the park operators reported, adding that no one was injured and no substantial damage resulted from the storm.

Lightning Strikes

The home of Herman Peters, 209 Paradise Lane, Mitchell, was struck by lightning at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday. The lightning first hit a tree in the front yard stripping the bark and then struck the house breaking a picture window.

No one was hurt as drapes, hanging in the window, blocked the flying glass. Damage occurred to siding on the dwelling.

Peters home was hit by lightning in a severe storm last June.

Aircraft Torn Loose

A $2,000 single engine Piper Cub aircraft, lifted down at Lakeside Airport on Illinois Highway 111, was torn loose, lifted into the air and dropped several hundred feet away.

Collide in Alley

The car of Roy Moore, 2808 Myrtle Ave., northbound in an alley behind 1213 Iowa Street, Madison, and the auto of Mildred Votpal, backing from the yard at that address, collided at 5:55 p.m. yesterday.

The plane was ripped in half.

The storm in mid-afternoon and threats of more high winds to come, cut attendance at a public hearing on the Granite City township budget to the lowest on record. Scheduled for 6 p.m. in the city hall, the hearing was attended by only three town officials and three persons in the audience.

The civil defense siren sounded its second tornado alert at 6 p.m., just as the meeting was called to order by Town Clerk Robert Stevens.

Burn Clinics Topic

At Kiwanis Meeting

The Shriners Burn and Orthopedic Clinics that treat severely burned children was the topic of a program presented by three members of the Almad Temple's Hospital Unit at Monday night's dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

Harry Weiss of Wood River, president of the group, his assistant Wayne Banks and Wally Holten, the latter two from Granite City, showed slides of hospital facilities provided for the treatment of children and the progress of specific cases.

They said that the Shriners, who are observing their 100th anniversary, have one of the most modern orthopedic centers in St. Louis county and will treat children up to 15 years of age.

"There are two million persons burned annually in this country, leaving 250,000 bedridden while 12,000 lose their lives as a result of burns," Weiss said.

"It takes 31.5 million a year to operate the burn clinics and orthopedic hospitals," he added.

The Hospital Unit visited Scott Air Force Base last week and collected 130 pints of blood to be used in operations for burn patients. "Every burn case requires about 25 pints of blood for an operation," the speaker said.

They announced that any organization that would like to view the slides and hear a talk on the operation of the Shriners, or wish to donate blood, can make the arrangements through Wayne Banks at 453-8128.

Following the program the Kiwanis discussed plans for the boat races to be held July 16.

Aldermen Urge Action to Clean up Madison Sites

Second Ward Alderman Richard Kismar of Madison requested an investigation by the police and legal staff into the condition of property in the vicinity of Sixth Street and McCambridge Avenue during the Madison City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Kismar asked that the investigation also determine if the occupant of the property is conducting a business requiring a license.

The site, according to Kismar, is cluttered with old trucks and at one time had a junked bus parked there. He said several residents in the neighborhood complained to him; and that he and Mayor Mike Sasyk had personally talked to the occupant in an effort to get the area cleaned up on several occasions.

Fifth Ward Alderman John Haynes suggested action should be taken to clean up property in the 700 block of Jefferson.

The Council agreed action should be taken. Mayor Sasyk instructed the city attorney to take immediate steps to see what may be done.

Mayor Sasyk told the Council that there will be a meeting of the Landfill Committee next week. He asked the council to think about what action they should recommend to the City Administration after the April elections next year since the Madison landfill will be coming due in September 1973.

On a motion by Fourth Ward Alderman Mike Sikora and a second by Fifth Ward Alderman John Haynes, the council reinstated Paul Besserman as a fireman. Besserman had been on a leave of absence following an accident. The motion also approved appointment of Floyd Jenkins as a probationary fireman.

A letter from Chief of Police Frank Dutko, Madison Cancer drive chairman, informed council members that April is National Cancer Month, and requested their aid in raising money for the Cancer fund. The letter announced that the Madison Police Department, Explorer Post 104, and the Auxiliary Police will hold a car wash Saturday to raise funds, and on April 29 will set up road blocks and make a house-to-house solicitation.

First Ward Alderman Don Reeves made a motion, seconded by Paul Ashford also of Ward One, that $100 be paid to the Lewis and Clark Junior College as tuition for four members of the Madison Fire Department to attend a fire tactics class to be held there. The motion carried. Firemen attending will be Gordon Bailey, Damian Caffrey, Terry Rhoades, and Charlie Voloski Jr.

He noted that three veterans had talked with recently in Peoria strongly objected to the amnesty proposal.

"These three men were combat veterans. They did not object to conscientious objectors serving out their time in some other service. Only the men who have evaded the draft laws by leaving the country."

To underscore his remarks the Amvets leader read passages from a letter, entitled "I Am A Sick American," which deplored current trends in popularizing pornography, smoking marijuana, ridiculing policemen, cynical attitudes toward patriotism, permissiveness and "the dirty, the foulmouthed and the unwashed."

Ramsey, a practicing attorney in Houston, was greeted here by Mayor Donald Parney of Granite City; Illinois Amvets Commander Fred Joch of Springfield; Missouri Amvets Commander John "Raisin" Cain of St. Louis; Joe Heffery, Illinois Disabled American Veterans deputy chief of staff; Francis Swinnen, Mount Vernon, Amvets national service officer; Leo Clements, Post 51, Illinois Amvets vice commander; Earl Smith, Post 51, 25th District commander; Alan Rich, Mount Vernon, 15th District commander; and Vasil Gravelle, Granite City and Charles Huntman, Mount Vernon, both past district commanders.

Accompanying the officials here was Mrs. Dorothy Leroy of Chicago, national president of the Amvets Auxiliary, who spoke briefly concerning the growth of auxiliary units, including the addition of 33 new auxiliary groups in the past 12 months.

Since her election to the auxiliary's top office, Mrs. Leroy has traveled 44,000 miles in a total of 25 states. She and Mrs. Delores Roback of Glenview Heights, Illinois Amvets Auxiliary president, were introduced and presented gifts by Mrs. Betty Wilkins, Amvets Post 51 auxiliary president.

Also guests of the auxiliary were Mrs. Kate Swinnen, Mount Vernon, Amvets Auxiliary Division 5 president; past divisional presidents Mrs. Charlotte Darnall and Mrs. Ann Tucker, Post 51 and Mrs. Mary Rich, Mount Vernon; Mrs. Irene Hoeller, Granite City.

Amvets Leader Opposes Amnesty for 'Deserters'

"It would be a dishonor and a disgrace to the 55,000 men who have sacrificed their lives in Vietnam to grant total amnesty to the 70,000 who found refuge to avoid military service," Amvets National Commander Joe F. Ramsey Jr., of Houston, Tex., said here Monday.

Some of the doves want to grant amnesty to this group by letting them serve three years in some type of government service. "... then all would be forgiven," the Amvets leader said.

"We of the Amvets have taken a national stand on this issue that we do not believe in it. It would be a dishonor to those 55,000 who have died."

Ramsey criticized the proposed amnesty while making a special visit to Amvets Post 51 clubhouse, 5100 Lakeview Drive, Monday evening. A buffet dinner was served to 105 local civic officials and representatives of various veterans' organizations.

Among the distinguished guests was Russell Dunham of Anah, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor in World War II in Germany.

Ramsey criticized the proposed government service measure recommended by some national leaders as a solution for those who have left the country to permit them to return, commenting, "I would not want to be in a veterans' hospital where any of the 70,000 deserters would or may work out their three years in exchange for amnesty and I doubt that any veteran would want to be in the same position."

He noted that three veterans had talked with recently in Peoria strongly objected to the amnesty proposal.

"These three men were combat veterans. They did not object to conscientious objectors serving out their time in some other service. Only the men who have evaded the draft laws by leaving the country."

To underscore his remarks the Amvets leader read passages from a letter, entitled "I Am A Sick American," which deplored current trends in popularizing pornography, smoking marijuana, ridiculing policemen, cynical attitudes toward patriotism, permissiveness and "the dirty, the foulmouthed and the unwashed."

GC Town Hearing Held on $350,959 Budget

A Granite City township budget totaling $350,959 was approved Tuesday in a 6 p.m. public hearing at the city hall, followed an hour later by the annual town meeting in which only routine business was completed. The budget was not presented during the town meeting.

The public hearing was the shortest on record, lasting only five minutes. It was attended by three town officials and three persons in the audience. Only one change was made in the town budget as it was posted originally, an increase of $1,618 in appropriations for the town collector's expense.

The hearing approved an increase in the projected cost of postage and envelopes from $381 to $1,260, and an increase in deputy collectors' salaries from $11,233 to $12,233.

The additional items brought to $23,559 the total appropriation for town collector's expenses, compared to $21,941 as originally budgeted.

Other budgets approved. With these increases, the budget of the town fund totals $374,459. Appropriations for the general assistance fund totaling $200,000 also were approved, as was a $13,500 budget for municipal retirement.

During the annual town meeting which began at 7 p.m., the annual township report of Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer for the 1971-72 year listed receipts of $218,860 in the town fund, and expenditures of $172,631, leaving a balance of $46,228 at the beginning of the current fiscal year on March 1.

Town fund expenditures included $18,499 in salaries and expenses for town officials, $43,442 in salaries to deputies and clerks of the assessor's office, $3,431 in fees to members of the town board of auditors (city council members), $83,234 in expenses for the assessor's office, $5,068 in expenses of town officials and $18,924 in municipal retirement costs.

The general assistance fund received funds totaling $208,492. Hagnauer's report showed while disbursements amounted to $203,197. While the report indicated a balance of $5,295 on the basis of these figures, it also listed $17,345 in unpaid obligations at the end of the last fiscal year on Feb. 29.

List Welfare Costs. Hagnauer reported that the general assistance fund paid $107,825 for food, the highest welfare item on the disbursement list. Rent payments for clients cost $8,161, and clothing, $4,293. Other welfare costs payable out of the general assistance fund included Doctor care, $4,492; Drugs, $8,906; hospital, $9,353 and other medical costs, $1,293.

Curtis Donley was elected moderator at the town meeting in which the electors approved resolutions fixing the per diem fee of the town clerk and the town auditors at $10 per meeting, the same as last year.

Approximately 20 electors attended the meeting also approved resolutions authorizing the appointment of a township attorney and a public accountant to make the township audit.

Weather Warning Plans Will Be Meeting Topic

Representatives of police, fire and civil defense agencies will meet at 2 p.m. Sunday at Notre Dame Academy, 6401 W. Main St., Belleville, for a special seminar designed to improve warning and protection of the public against severe seasonal weather.

George Brancato, meteorologist in charge of the St. Louis Weather Bureau, will discuss tornado and severe weather warning procedures and community projects to help alleviate spring flood conditions, among other problems.

Cougar Nine Takes Off For Six Road Games

The Southern Illinois University-Southwestern baseball team, off to a 8-4 season, will take to the road this week for six games before visiting the first game on their new field.

The Cougar baseballers of Coach Roy E. Lee will invade Memphis, Tenn., for a Friday twinnish with Christian Brothers College. It'll be a doubleheader against the University of Tennessee at Martin, Tenn., Saturday.

The Cougars will play a single game at Martin Sunday and head back north to St. Louis University Wednesday, April 19, in St. Louis.

On Friday, April 19, the Cougar nine will open SIU-SW new field on the local campus with a pair of games with St. Louis Cardinals, for a Friday Evansville. The new, finely engineered field has practically the same dimensions as St. Louis' Cardinal Stadium.

It's 330 feet down both foul lines, 388 feet in the power alleys in both left and right center, and 410 feet in center field.

All SIU-SW twinnish start at 1 p.m.

The Cougars, who have won seven of their last eight games, won three games last week, including 5-3 and 1-0 doubleheader victories Saturday over Mississippi College and a 1-5-2 triumph over a strong University of Missouri, St. Louis, club last Thursday.

Commenting on the new field, Dal Maxvill, shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals, said, "This infield is as good as any in the major leagues."

Maxvill and Don Shaw have been working out on the Cougar field during the player strike.

On the infield the turf is a new Swedish grass called Fyl-King, which is supposed to keep green and filled out even during extreme hot weather and is very rugged. The field, located at Pease and Bluff Roads, is completely enclosed by a plastic-covered cyclone fence. Around the fence there's a 30-foot warning terrace.

Thirteen game statistics show sophomore star centerfielder Tom Twellman leading the Cougar with a robust 413 batting average. Twellman, who has been installed in center to replace the injured and red-shirted Jerry Pilcher, has a nine-game hitting streak going in which he has blasted three doubles, two triples and one four-bagger. He's tied with Dan Gault for the runs-batted-in lead with 10 and has fanned only twice in 46 times at bat.

Bill Campbell, big first baseman from Madison, is second in the hit parade with a .366 average. Third is Mike Altaria (.343), followed by Tim Summers (.335). Jo Jo Crenshaw (.327), Dan Cole (.326), Ron Robbing (.254), Roger Belshe (.235), Pat Bueck (.227) and Willis Bundy (.200). Jan Dishinger, outfielder, has hit 429 in seven times at bat with three hits. Bobby Graves, another outfielder, is two for 16.

The veteran senior right handed hurler, Don (Ducky) Altaria is leading the Cougar's mound corps with a 2-0 record and a remarkable earned run average of .00.

His 19 in 20 innings pitched is also tops, followed by Steve Malone's 16 and Ron Middleton's 12. Middleton is 2-1, Ken Desmarre, 1-1, Malone, 1-0, Dale Wildersph, 1-1 plus one save, and Mike Dickey is 1-1.

Steve Stewart has saved two games.

Team hitting is 90 points better than that of its opponents, 292 to 202. The Cougar's cumulative mound staff ERA is 2.18 as compared with their opponents' 4.76.

Coach Lee has brought Jim Greenwald up from the JV team to fill the spot vacated by Jerry Pilcher.

The Madison High School Trojans felt the loss of three varsity track and field men as they dropped a home meet with Assumption Monday 74½-52½.

A dual meet set for Collinsville Tuesday and a home event with Triad yesterday were weathered out.

John Newsome and Carl Campbell were ill and Trojan star Ed Chandler started the meet strong but pulled a leg muscle in the last 20 yards of the 220-yard dash. He was taken out of the lineup.

Chandler earlier won the 100-yard dash in 10.5 seconds and anchored the winning 880-yard relay team which finished in 1:39.8. Other members of the 880 team were Larry Evans, Joe Young and Kelvin Boyd.

Young, a freshman, made a surprising showing during the day's events as he finished second in the 220 and third in the 100-yard dash.

The Trojan mile relay team also was strong, winning in 3:48, its best time of the year despite the fact that Larry Evans dropped the baton on a handoff and had to backtrack to retrieve it. Other mile relay runners were Harvey Lee, Boyd and Emory Wilson.

Wilson also won first place in the 440-yard dash in 55.7, and

Miss Pamela Mount and Alan Saathoff Are Wed

Roses and chrysanthemums in shades of yellow and green, together with lighted orange candles in aisle candelabra, formed the setting at Tri-City Park Tabernacle on April 8 for the evening wedding of Miss Pamela Ruth Mount and Alan D. Saathoff.

The newly married couple received guests at a reception immediately following the ceremony in the church Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Mount, the mother of the bride, chose a knit dress in a pastel orange shade with matching accessories.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Saathoff, was attired in a light green knit dress. Accessories in the same shade complemented the ensemble. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow roses.

The parents of the groom entertained members of the wedding party at a rehearsal dinner at the Canal Restaurant. After a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will make their home at McPherson, Kan., where both are attending Central College.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Lessberg, Herkimer, Kan., Mrs. Helen Walck, Mrs. Corneille Allen, and the Rev. and Mrs. Larry W. Godwin of Russell, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Herring, Florissant, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dorway of Edwardsville; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Knapp, Rosewood Heights; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Groves; Mr. and Mrs. Cal Burge, Miss Beverly Groves, Larry Walton and Mrs. Eva Wernle of Greenville, Ill.; Miss Karen Ezell of Bridgeport, Mo.; Miss Kathy Benton, Bunch Hulsman, Mike and Roger Fenton of Gillespie, Ill.; George Fenton, Mrs. W. Fenton and Mrs. Alice Hemken, Litchfield, Ill.; Miss Cheryl Pitcock and Miss Joan Weir of Dallas, Tex.; Andrew Laflerty, Shreveport, La.; Dave Brown, Leota, Kan.; Miss Chlorine Kingsley and Sid Sowers of McPherson, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vaughn of Richmond, Ill.

Full sleeves of sheer organza were designed with a wide band of lace at the elbow and deep lace cuffs. Lace motifs were applied on the yoke and were repeated on the full skirt, creating an apron effect.

The bride wore a full length mantilla veil edged with a wide border of Chantilly lace, and she carried a single orange rose.

Mrs. Gail Neidhardt, a cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, serving with Mrs. Carol Mount, the bride's sister-in-law and Miss Brenda Groves, bridesmaids.

They wore identical formal length gowns created of floor organza in muted spring colors of orange, green and yellow. Long full sleeves were set into fitted bodices, accented with smoking at the yoke and trimmed with yellow ribbon and buttons.

The honor attendant's gown had olive green accents. Each girl wore a large picture hat of yellow straw, with matching streamer ribbons, and carried a single yellow rose.

Debbie Paoli, the little flower girl, wore a dress of white eyelet over chiffon trimmed at the waist with ribbons in orange, green and yellow. She also carried a single orange rose.

Greg Godwin was the ring-bearer.

Serving as best man was Sid Sowers and the groomsmen were Andrew Laflerty and David Brown. Daniel Mount, a brother of the bride and Roger Leseberg, the groom's cousin, seated the guests.

Peace Theme Stressed at BPW Breakfast

Echoing General William Tecumseh Sherman's famous words — "War is Hell" — the Rev. Robert L. Kettelhut emphasized the need to do away with self-seeking and quest for power and return to "peace on earth and good will to men."

The St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ minister used Gen. Sherman's 85-year-old expression to underscore his message to more than 125 persons who attended the fourth annual "Prayer for Peace Breakfast," sponsored by the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club.

Breakfast was served at 8:30 a.m. to BPW members and guests at the Madison Memorial Center.

Mrs. Alvenette Metcalf, club chaplain, led the pledge of allegiance and greetings were offered by Mrs. Pauline Weir, BPW president and Mrs. Sunshine Scruggs, prayer breakfast chairman.

Prayer was offered by Captain Ronald Kerley of the Salvation Army and the Rev. Robert Killian, pastor of the Venice United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Kettelhut spoke of the horrors of war stating, "We need to treat people like people . . . or maybe we should treat them like animals, since animals receive good care, love and attention. Self-seeking has thrown righteousness right out of the window, so it seems we have begun to live our lives for ourselves alone."

"Figures released last week show 60% of the national budget is for military purposes," the minister continued. "The remaining 40% must cover all phases of welfare, housing, prevention of crime, education and in solving environmental problems."

"Because we are the most powerful nation in the world today, we think we need to be the masters . . . this is not so," the Rev. Kettelhut declared.

"Love was the theme of the last season . . . will this theme continue? Not unless we have the humility to serve the Creator . . . follow God's words . . . find peace on earth and show good will to men. For the way we treat people is the way we treat God," the St. Peter's pastor said.

"Love is offered to us and to all mankind and should be shared with one another. Peace is not here," the Rev. Kettelhut stated.

"We have gathered in prayer before and again we meet to pray for peace. Let us hope that next year we do not again have to pray for peace," he concluded.

Musical entertainment was provided by Carol and Bob Lintzenich of Caseyville, who known as "Brother and Sister."

The duo has appeared in programs connected with area religious groups and other service organizations. In addition to their displaying vocal talents, the twosome played the cello and vibraphone.

Among the guests attending the breakfast were State Senator Sam Vadala; Madison Mayor and Mrs. Mike Sayre;

Versatile Jim Bolen to Spark Style Show

Versatile Jim Bolen, member of a television news team since 1983 and an entertainer and musician, will serve as commentator for the Granite City Junior Service Club's style show Sunday at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus.

"Zodiac Fashions for '72" is the theme of the event, to be staged at 2 p.m. in SIU-SW's Meridian Hall. More than 100 models, including men, women and children, will be featured in fashions for the spring and summer seasons.

Prior to his assignment as a weathercaster on St. Louis television, Bolen, 42, co-starred on "Cooky and the Captain" rated as one of the most successful children's television programs in St. Louis. The series began in March 1958 and continued nine years.

Bolen's broadcasting career started before World War II and his career as an entertainer dates even further back to the days when his parents, touring as vaudevillians under the name of Bolen and Bolen, performed on the old Orpheum Circuit.

Today, his career covers a variety of activities. He is an accomplished musician, playing the vibes, drums, piano and writes music; appears at a local supper club with the "Hotti Drury Trio" and emceeds his own record show which he tapes at home for 23 radio stations in the U. S. and one armed forces station in Vietnam.

Because of his interest in sports, particularly golf and basketball, Bolen has been assigned to cover major tournaments as a free-lance writer and broadcaster.

Born in Carbondale, he is a graduate of Southern Illinois University. He is eager to reminisce about his years with radio and television stations in Ohio, Illinois and Iowa, and discuss his war service with the U. S. Navy Band and Entertainment Division in the South Pacific, where he performed with Eddie Peabody. Following the war, years he toured with Benny Goodman and Ted Weems. SCOTTS HALTS PLUS FOR ESTABLISHED LAWNS

If there was crabgrass in your neighborhood last year, it will likely be back this year, because its seeds are in the ground. But you can stop them before they get started in your lawn with Scotts HALTS PLUS For Established Lawns. It sets up a barrier which stops crabgrass seeds as they sprout. Full-fertilizes your good grass at the same time, making your lawn grow greener and sturdier.

Radio Operators Host Potluck

More than 70 amateur radio operators and their guests last week attended a potluck dinner and business meeting of the Egyptian Amateur Radio Club at the club building near the Chain of Rocks Bridge. The club furnished fried chicken and other meat and families brought hot dishes and desserts. Favors of small decorated champagne glasses filled with mints were given to each adult and "swaglets" and drums containing candy were given to the children. Red felt leazes with gold tassels and the club's initials embossed in gold were presented to the ladies. Other gifts also were awarded. While the men held a short business meeting, the ladies enjoyed a social session. The club meets every Thursday. All amateur radio operators are invited to take part. Plans were announced for the annual picnic and "swagfest" on Sunday, June 25.

MRS. RICHARD HEATHERLY, the former Miss Lois Boone, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Boone, 3144 Jill Ave., who was married at the Glenview Chapel.

Lois Boone Is Married In Candlelight Setting

Miss Lois Boone, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Boone, 3144 Jill Ave., and Richard Heatherly, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Mary V. Webb, 2117 Cleveland Blvd., and the late Earl C. Heatherly, were united in marriage on April 8 at Glenview Chapel.

Mrs. Reed Johnson presided at the organ, accompanying Mrs. Sue Hartmann, vocalist, who sang "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing," "Hawaiian Wedding Song" and the Lord's Prayer.

The Rev. M. W. Wilson, pastor, officiated at the 7:30 p.m. double ring ceremony before an altar illuminated with candlelight and holding baskets of fresh cut spring flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely tulle gown designed in Empire silhouette style. French silk pou d'ange lace formed the high collar and cuffed the full sleeves. A lace panel extended from the bodice to hemline and the controlled skirt swept into a wattleau chapel length train.

Pou d'ange lace inserted with satin ribbon created a stunning camelot headpiece and secured a triple tiered veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and baby breath.

The attendants, Miss Rita Wallace, Miss Barbara Groll, Mrs. Edward Boone, a sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Art Heatherly, the groom's sister-in-law, were dressed alike in floor length gowns of mint green organza. They were fashioned with a Venise lace bodice, short sleeves and full skirts.

Camelot bonnets of matching mint green lace were worn on their hair and they carried fire-side baskets filled with white, and yellow daisies and baby breath.

Scott Heatherly, the groom's nephew, was the ringbearer, walking down the aisle with the little flower girl, Marsha Wilson. She wore a frock made in similar style to the attendants' gowns.

Jim Wood served the groom as best man. Terry Hendrickson, Art Heatherly, the groom's brother, Richard Jones, Mark and David Boone, brothers of the bride, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Jerry Lee Boone, a cousin of the bride, presided over the guest book during a reception in the 300 Room of the Tri-Mor Bowl, held immediately following the ceremony.

The newly married couple is making their home in Bethalto. The former Miss Boone is employed at Corn Sweeteners Inc., and her husband works for Mid-States Finance Co. in Alton.

WHEN THE WHOLESALE PRICE ON MEATS GOES DOWN, NATIONAL SUPER MARKETS REDUCES PRICES, WE DON'T FREEZE THEM

NATIONAL IS NOT SUDDENLY LOWERING PRICES BECAUSE OF SENSATIONAL HEADLINES, OUR MERCHANDISE WAS NOT OVERPRICED TO BEGIN WITH.

YOU CAN BE SURE THAT IF WHOLESALE PRICES CONTINUE TO DECLINE, NATIONAL'S RETAIL PRICES WILL CONTINUE TO DECLINE ALONG WITH THE MARKET TREND.

NATIONAL SUPER MARKETS HAVE BEEN REDUCING FRESH MEAT PRICES FOR THE PAST TWO AND A HALF WEEKS ON SUCH ITEMS AS: CHUCK ROAST, PORK CHOPS, ROUND STEAKS, T-BONE STEAKS, PORTERHOUSE STEAKS, RIB ROAST AND FRYING CHICKENS — BASIC MEAT CUTS EVERYBODY BUYS. NATIONAL HAS CONSISTENTLY MAINTAINED THE LOWEST PRICES IN THE AREA ON GROUND BEEF AND BEEF STEW — EVEN LOWER THAN SOME "SO-CALLED" DISCOUNT STORES.

When National lowers a price, the price stays down every day of the week — every week of the month — not like some stores that reduce the price for one week and then raise that price for the next three weeks.

The only time our prices change is when our wholesale costs increase or decrease — we do not lower prices in one Department and raise them in another Department.

National's prices are consistent with the wholesale cost of merchandise and comparable to every kind of food stores in the area, including the so-called discounters. In addition, our customers receive EAGLE STAMPS with every purchase which they can redeem for EXTRA CASH SAVINGS.

Nameoki Budget Approved in Hearing

Nameoki township residents approved in public hearing Monday night a proposed town and general assistance fund budget totaling $196,546. The new budget is to be acted upon by the town board in its regular meeting April 24.

Town electors also met in a regular town meeting Tuesday night in the Nameoki town hall, but did not consider the town budget or that of the road and bridge fund. The electors approved a resolution providing a $15,000 appropriation as the township's share of engineering fees for a proposed Quad-City area sewer construction program.

In other business before the town meeting Tuesday night, the electors approved a transfer of $23,000 from the special hard road fund to the road and bridge fund to pay for traffic lights installed at Maryville and Kreiner Schools.

Charles Wood, Arlington Heights, served as moderator at the town meeting in which the electors also approved resolutions authorizing the town board to employ a township attorney and an accountant to make the township audit. Per diem fees for township officers also were set by the electors without changes from last year's schedule.

Appropriation Raised

During the public hearing Monday night, the township residents added $1,000 to a $3,000 appropriation for mosquito abatement in the town fund, providing a total of $4,000 for that item. This brought the total budget for town purposes to $197,546. The general assistance fund appropriations approved Monday night totaled $89,985.

The public hearing Monday followed the regular town board meeting in which town officials considered procedure for the appointment of a trustee each on the boards of the Miracle Manor and State Park Lighting districts.

The terms of Edward Krueger, trustee of the Miracle Manor district, and Al Bakos, a trustee of the State Park district, expire this year and will be filled by appointment.

Town Board members said the Board of Appointments will schedule a meeting soon to make the trustee appointments, and one to fill the vacancy on the Nameoki town board of auditors created by the resignation of Robert Beedle. Beedle resigned two weeks ago.

The board also accepted a bid of 85 cents per square foot for construction of sidewalks at Maryville and Kreiner schools. Total cost of the projects is estimated at $2,000. The contract was awarded to Ellsworth Concrete Co. of Granite City, who was the only bidder.

Wm. Hoelscher Takes Job Offer in Oregon

William F. Hoelscher, general manager-secretary of the Manufacturers' Association of the Tri-Cities, will leave the management of the association April 30 to assume a new position as administrative assistant to the executive vice-president of the Timber Operators Council, Inc. of Portland, Ore. It was announced today by Association President Richard L. Lich, president of the Castings Division of General Steel Industries, Inc.

While Hoelscher's successor is being sought, the association will be managed by Thomas Kolesa, administrative assistant to Lich at the GSI Castings Division. Kolesa, of Granite City, has been long active in civic affairs, served for several years with the Tri-Cities United Fund campaign and currently is a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the Tri-Cities. The Timber Operators Council which Hoelscher will join May 1 is an industrial relations employers' association representing the wood products industry of the state of Washington, Oregon, Northern California and Alaska with offices in Seattle, Wash.; Portland, Eugene and Klamath Falls, Ore., and Redding, Calif.

Hoelscher will be located at the head office in Portland. Hoelscher, a native of Granite City, joined the manufacturers' association in October 1962 as an assistant to and replacement for his father, G. W. Hoelscher who had served as the association's general manager-secretary for 28 years prior to his retirement to Clearwater, Fla. in January 1964.

Prior to his employment with the association, Hoelscher was a member of the industrial relations staff of Shell Oil Co. in San Francisco, Calif., and Belingham, Wash., and served with the Air Force as a legal officer in Ottawa, Canada.

Headed Plan Commission

During his 9½ years with the association Hoelscher was active in local civic affairs, was chairman of the Granite City Plan Commission for five years and served on the boards of directors of numerous local, state and national service organizations.

His wife, Mrs. Mildred Hoelscher, a native of Wood River, has been employed as a teacher in Granite City School District 9 for the last five years, specializing in Title I preschool education and kindergarten. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoelscher received their degrees from the University of Illinois. They have two children, Hans, 8, and Gretchen, 11. The Hoelschers will not move their residence to Oregon until June 1.

Caught on Railroad Car

Four boys, ages 12 and 13, were arrested in the Madison Railroad Yards at the end of Race Street in Madison yesterday after climbing on a train car of automobiles. The boys were reprimanded and released to their parents.

Backs Into Car

The car of Carmon Bridick, 419a Madison Ave., Madison, while backing, collided with the car of D. H. Ridgeway, Collinsville, in the 1500 block of Third Street in Madison at 2:40 p.m. yesterday.

Richard West to Head GC Rotary Club

Richard West of Granite City Steel Co. and current vice-president of the Granite City Rotary Club was elected as club president for the 1972-73 year at the club's luncheon meeting at the YMCA Tuesday.

Other officers elected are Joseph Bassler, first vice-president; A. H. Froemling, second vice-president; Robert Hillard, secretary; Earl Dotzauer, assistant secretary; Harold Bauman, treasurer; James Karandjef, assistant treasurer and Marvin VanMetre, sergeant at arms.

Directors who are to serve three years are Walter Milton, Howard Schenke and Marvin VanMetre. William Mehl was named to a two-year term. Jon Cunningham, who played with the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators during his mafor league career, was guest speaker, introduced by Dotzauer.

Cunningham, who has been a manager in the Cardinals' farm system for the last four years, spoke on his new duties that include work in sales, promotions and operation of the speakers bureau.

"I am confident with the players the Cardinals have this year, they could take the division and pennant," he said. "I am still convinced that baseball is the number one sport and television has increased the interest of sports fans."

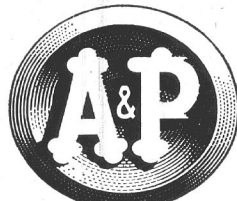

West, now vice-president, presided at the meeting, and introduced James Davidson, a member of the administrative staff of St. Elizabeth Hospital, a new member.

West also reminded the members of the annual Chili Day at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church Tuesday. Tickets are $1 per person and serving will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 5 to 7 p.m.

HOW DOES A&P FEEL ABOUT CONSUMER PROTECTION?

Concerned... very concerned!
If we weren't, we would not have an unconditional money-back satisfaction guarantee on every product we sell... no matter who makes it.
If we weren't, we would not have established, decades ago, our "Quality Control Laboratory".
How does the laboratory protect you?
Well, at A&P, we're pretty fussy about the products we sell.
So, before we will stock a product, we check it out pretty carefully.
Our lab has checked thousands of products. If they don't think the product measures up, you'll never find it on an A&P shelf... no matter who the maker is, or who is behind the product.
It's not always easy to care but A&P doesn't care to be easy. A&P does care about you.

Plan Encircles Community with Open Space, Blocks Most Growth; Ban Must Be Opposed

Whoever wrote the proposed Madison County Plan dated December 1969 had no love for the Quad-Cities area.

It is doubtful that the individual is really familiar with this community, notwithstanding the statistical data he compiled. If he ever lived here, which seems improbable, he failed to see it with eyes of friendship or respect. He did not recognize many of its tangible and intangible assets.

All of this might not be so important except for the fact that the County Plan apparently is going to be forced down Quad-City's throats if it is left in its present form.

A U. S. Housing and Urban Development Department administrator has intervened in a local-level zoning issue. He says that the County Plan is going to be followed, like it or not, or he will turn off the federal financial faucet for Madison County and the southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission.

The Plan, quite understandably, has never been acted upon by the County Board. Its bias against the Quad-Cities area is such that it chokes off any prospect of normal growth.

We are unloved. We are found wanting. We fail to measure up. Therefore, we die as a community, if the planner has his way.

And he's going to get his way unless his conclusions are countermanded by the County Board.

Beset by some misinformed or mischievous citizens, organizations and news media, Madison County legislators may give in to the pressure and join in a "thumbs down" verdict against the well being and even the continued existence of the Quad-Cities.

But the industry is not to be settled by default. Those who have regard for this area—those who see some of its outstanding virtues, including its attractive neighborhoods, its safe streets, its friendliness and citizenship and generosity and decency—are going to make their voices heard.

In the County Plan introduction, it is said that "while the City of St. Louis is situated on higher ground, the western portion of Madison and St. Clair Counties, as well as Monroe County, is made up of alluvial bottomland, locally known as the American Bottoms. Much of this low land was subject to flooding from the Mississippi River. This has been remedied by the levee system, but some of the area is still subject to inundation from internal drainage."

"Therefore, in its historic development, the character of urban development in the American Bottoms, as opposed to the City of St. Louis, was typically of more modest and less stable character."

"In addition, the American Bottoms have been utilized in the past by industries such as oil refining, steel making, packing houses, chemical works, rubber reclaiming works and other industries that have characteristics which are generally considered noxious."

Later in the introduction, the planner contends that "the area's problems are the result of its inherited economic base, governmental structure and social disparities."

"The Illinois portion of the metropolitan area has had a history of uncoordinated development in terms of overlapping and conflicting governmental services and fragmented political jurisdictions."

"This legacy is reflected, to a large degree, in the tarnished image projected by the area."

"Some of the basic needs include the enhancement of physical image, the removal of pockets of physical blight, the elimination of environmental pollution, the accelerated modernization of obsolescent industries, the upgrading of unskilled and semi-skilled labor and the provision of an ample supply of quality housing, particularly for low-income families and the elderly."

These needs have become especially acute in the face of rapid urbanization, advancing technology and spreading physical blight."

Dealing with the ills of the Quad-Cities, the County Plan calls for a noose around local growth; a relatively undeveloped "green belt" surrounding this community; and 80%+ population growth for Edwardsville, Collinsville and other areas of the bluffs which separate the eastern two-thirds of Madison County from the western one-third.

A chart in the plan projects 1968-1985 population expansion of 82.9% in Wood River, 81.8% in Collinsville, 81.5% in Edwardsville, 89.4% in Godfrey, 89.6% in Fort Russell and 70.3% for Jarvis Township—but only 17.1% for Granite City, 10.0% for Nameoki Township and 0.0% for Venice Township.

Direct quotes show the prejudice for the bluff area and against the Quad-Cities.

"Areas that have commenced or are in the process of developing certain inter-related land uses or developing certain functions and/or activities must be considered in projected development demand. An example of such an area is to the south of the center of Edwardsville where residential development and commercial development is occurring."

"In the older urbanized areas such as Granite City-Madison-Venice, it is assumed that much of the development which occurs will be largely the result of the re-use of land through programs of urban renewal that may either be private in nature or financed by the state and federal government."

The plan goes on, "It is possible to generally categorize the moderate-demand areas in three functional classifications within Madison County. The first occurs in the American Bottoms in large concentrations. There are definite locational advantages when considering the regional transportation network; however, there are severe physical constraints in regard to soils and other problems, such as flooding, that must be overcome if this land is to be developed."

"This would require an extensive capital outlay to protect from flooding and provide for proper foundations for buildings. Thus, it would appear that industrial development would comprise the major demand on this land. And it is anticipated that as industrial development occurs, it will not be at an exceedingly rapid pace."

The plan later raises and answers a question: "How great is the demand for industrial development?"

"It is anticipated that industrial development in this area would more than likely be of a heavy industrial nature and most of these are not high-growth industries at this time. Thus, although the area possesses several attributes, there are counterbalancing negative factors which led to a moderate demand rating for this area."

Giving his explanation of why the Quad-Cities should not develop to east of the planer proposes "that the area which lies between Routes 111 and 157 be left relatively free of development. Currently, this area is subject to ponding, has severe soil problems, and is used primarily for agricultural purposes. In fact, it is possibly some of the richest agricultural land within Madison County."

Presently, a new concept in the establishment of new urban areas is the creation of green belts in order to provide areas of open space.

"Madison County has a naturally created open space or green belt which divides the Tri-Cities area from the developed areas of Collinsville, Maryville, Glen Carbon and Edwardsville. Also, the pressure for land development has not reached the point where this land is prime for development."

"Therefore, it is suggested that this area be held relatively open and free of development as a land reserve for the future when technological developments can be advanced to the point where this land with all its inherent problems can be overcome economically."

The barbs and bias continue: "The intent and purpose of residential areas is to provide the amenities of a pleasant environment in which to live. Residential areas should be conveniently located but protected from heavy traffic, smoke, noise and other nuisances created by or associated with intensive commercial and industrial development."

"Two major factors which could be detrimental to the development of this district, unless successfully dealt with, are the conflict between rail and vehicular traffic and the unfavorable soil conditions."

"It is anticipated that secondary commercial shopping areas will develop to serve the local residents of the Tri-Cities area. These commercial areas will be primarily convenience shopping centers and will not become regional in character."

Major focal points for the development of future land use patterns are described as "Edwardsville to the north and Collinsville to the south."

"Collinsville will primarily develop as a dormitory community with many of its residents commuting to St. Louis and other metropolitan employment centers."

"However, a major regional commercial facility is proposed in the Collinsville area between rerouted Illinois 157 and old Illinois Route 157."

"Edwardsville will become a focal point of activities for Madison County serving three functions: educational, governmental and regional commercial."

"Urban development in southwestern Madison County is centered around Granite City with its neighboring communities of Madison, Venice and Pontoon Beach."

"Expansion of the present urban area eastward and southward is effectively limited by the presence of Horseshoe Lake, a recently designated state park; poorly-drained lands to the east; and Interstate 55 to the south. The northern limit of the district is marked by Interstate 270, another effective barrier."

"Almost all new residential construction is taking place in the northeastern portion of the Tri-Cities area some distance from the old residential cores which are immediately adjacent to heavy industrial tracts and less desirable for this purpose."

"Presently, the old commercial core of Granite City is in a state of flux and rapidly declining, receiving staff competition from shopping centers."

"Due to the highly industrialized character of the American Bottoms, problems of environmental pollution are frequent. During extensive periods of thermal inversion, air pollution problems often become severe in nature. The pollution found in the Mississippi River and in streams draining portions of southwestern Illinois also detracts from the environment."

If virtually no future growth were permitted—and the permanently vacant areas on the County Plan maps are ominous indications of what is intended—the chilling effect on Quad-City economic and social life would be disastrous.

The words and phrases in the plan are repugnant and inappropriate, "subject to inundation"; "less stable urban areas"; "non-desired industrial characteristics"; "social disparities"; "obsolescent industries"; "spreading physical blight"; "tarnished image."

Not only are there numerous inaccuracies, but the County Plan by its own "obsolescence" fails to take into account rapid strides made here during the current decade in environmental progress, extension and improvement of governmental services, sewer-drainage planning and other categories.

Its finding that the Quad-Cities are not entitled to a future cannot be accepted. The time is fast approaching when local citizens must "stand up and be counted" to assert their God-given, Constitutionally-protected rights.

Would Amendment Place Social Security in Peril?

Copley News Service

The designation of the bill that has passed the House and is in the final phases of being introduced in the Senate Finance Committee is rather prosaic, HR-1—amendment to the Social Security Act.

If approved, however, its impact on the United States would be far-reaching, permanent and probably irreversible.

One part of the measure would guarantee all welfare recipients in the United States would get a guaranteed federal income.

It would add eight to ten million persons to the welfare rolls overnight by including those families that are working and self-sufficient but whose income falls below a federal definition of poverty.

Another part of the bill is to presently being considered by the House, introduced by Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the finance committee, would increase Social Security payroll taxes by about one third while increasing benefits by about 10%.

For equivalent lengths of time, recipients would receive nearly the same benefits, regardless of how much they paid into the fund. Finally, all present Social Security as an annuity supported by a trust fund would be abandoned.

It would simply be a matter of persons working today paying for the retirement of those who turned 62 or 65 yesterday.

The welfare sections of the bill would tend to make poor people permanent wards of the federal government by removing control of assistance programs from the states.

Likewise, the Social Security provisions of the bill would make the elderly-poor permanent creatures of the federal government and, for the first time, would have the near-poor and those who barely paid the maximum into the program—supporting those who are poorer.

All told, it would be another giant step into socialism at a cost typical of paternalistic government programs.

If the long measure passes, an employee would pay more than $600 a year toward his retirement, a sum that would be matched by his employer.

States such as California, which has begun to get a halt in its welfare program, are trying their utmost to prevent the passage of the federal welfare reforms proposed in HR-1.

California state employees are pulling out of the Social Security program, saying that it is too expensive for them.

They are convinced that they can match the benefits of federal Social Security at half of the cost through state programs.

In the same way, John Q. Citizen also could better the benefits by investing his $1200 a year in a private annuity program.

But Washington won't let him—it has the bear by the tail.

PLANNER ACTED TO BAR DEPARTURE FROM PLAN

To the Editor:

The persistent efforts to link opposition to the proposed rezoning of 770 acres in Chouteau Township with total opposition to the Madison County Land Use Plan is a disservice to the community and to the taxpayers.

The Chicago Region V office of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development has made it quite clear that it is only desirous to see the adoption and implementation of the Madison County Land Use Plan developed by our tax-supported planning agency, SINAPC.

This plan is exceedingly liberal in allotting many thousands of acres in the American Bottoms for heavy industrial, residential and commercial development. It does, however, clearly exclude the east of Mitchell known as Wet Prairie from development.

As an environmentalist, I would be delighted if the great opposition that has developed to the rezoning proposal was based only on environmental grounds. However, it must be apparent to any astute and unbiased observer that the principal opposition has developed represents a broadly-based taxpayers' revolt.

The charge that the Coalition for the Environment is working behind the scenes to write off Madison County and its future has no basis in fact. The St. Louis County Council has virtually legislated mobile home developments out of this county.

The Coalition is a regional environmental organization and was incorporated in Illinois as a non-profit corporation. Its executive director, Charles Schweighauser, is a native of Alton, Ill. His father was a vice-president of Laclede Steel Co. until his recent retirement.

The elder Schweighauser was an active participant in the local manufacturers' association and is well known to many industrial leaders in the Quad-City area and Madison County.

The Coalition's single action with respect to this rezoning measure was the drafting of the letter from its executive director to Mr. Howard Kaseberg.

The letter was drafted in very close collaboration with, and at the suggestion of, a professional planner who was intimately acquainted with engineering development of the Madison County Land Use Plan.

This individual was deeply concerned that all the engineering and planning effort went into the development of this plan would go down the drain in a massive development of mobile homes was permitted, in direct conflict with the plan.

The land use plan was developed at a cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars of federal and local tax money. Scuttling of the plan was developed at a cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars of federal and local tax money. Scuttling of the plan without adequate consideration by the Madison County Board, or by a referendum of the voters, would be criminally wasteful.

It would certainly be a reasonable cause for concern by federal officials who administer assistance funds for sewers, drainage and other programs as to the value of providing subsidies for hedge-podge developments that could be great burdens on federal and local tax resources in the future.

State Status Voters 'Fed Up' With Officials?

By KEN WATSON

Copley News Service

Springfield—Although the re-verberations will be felt for a long time, the Illinois primary has now passed into history. The political campaign of this hectic year of 1972 has settled into a quiet lull before entering the second and decisive half.

Before taking a political fur-rough of our own and heading across the Atlantic for strength weeks, we offer this current assessment as viewed from the Statehouse Dome.

Although the matter is debated, the prevailing feeling at the capitol is that Republican Alton B. Ogilvie's chances of reelection have brightened substantially as a result of Daniel Walker's surprising upset victory over Democratic Lt. Gov. Paul Simon.

Before the primary and Simon's astonishing loss, most Statehouse politicians, including both Democrats and Republicans had considered him as the next governor. Even the most loyal Republican supporters were privately doubtful that Ogilvie could beat him.

The outlook is different now that Walker is the candidate. Most Statehouse Democrats as well as Republican feel now that Ogilvie can win, while before they had given him little hope at.

There is a feeling that the voters will take a second look at Walker before November, that he will have difficulty bringing all the divided Democratic segments back together and that, in the end, Walker, like Simon, will "talk himself out of it."

In the senatorial race, Republican Charles H. Percy still appears as strong as ever, but His Democratic challenger, U. S. Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, gained no appreciable strength in a somewhat poor primary showing against a virtually unknown opponent.

The main Pucinski campaign has yet to begin. The Percy situation is matched by that of Republican Attorney General William J. Scott. He, too, is a clear favorite at this stage; his Democratic challenger, State Sen. Thomas G. Lyons of Chicago, is showing a tendency to fumble the campaign ball every time he tries to catch up.

The brightest star for the Democrats right now is Aug. Michael J. Howlett, ranked at the Statehouse as a clear favorite to be elected as secretary of state. Republican Edmund J. Kaschanski faces the toughest job of all GOP candidates.

Howlett, almost alone among the major Democratic state candidates, emerged from the primary without battle scars. He is a clear favorite to be elected as secretary of state.

But there is still confidence among the Statehouse GOP that, whatever else happens, President Nixon will carry this state in November.

They consider Nixon a cinch over either U. S. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine or U. S. Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota.

They would expect him to have more trouble with either former Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey or U. S. Sen. Edward "Ted" Kennedy of Massachusetts.

But what bothers Illinois Republicans most at this point in the campaign is the development—underscored repeatedly in the various state primaries—that voters in general are in an "anti-establishment" mood and are highly incumbent office-holder is fair game.

The issues, the candidates' positions and record, so far do not seem to have counted for much.

Extra Office Hours To Assist Taxpayers

The Internal Revenue Service will provide extended office hours to accommodate Quad-City taxpayers who have not yet filed their Federal income tax returns, Jay G. Philpott, district director, said today.

The IRS office at East St. Louis will open for walk-in and telephone assistance on Saturday, April 15, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., and on Monday, April 17, until 8:30 p.m.

Philpott warned taxpayers not to wait until the deadline date to file their income tax return. "The longer you wait the more difficult it will be to obtain assistance," he said. Most inquiries can be answered by phone, he added. "When calling or visiting the IRS office it's always a good idea to have your records available," he suggested.

The telephone number to call is 274-2200. The IRS office is located at the Federal Building, 650 Missouri Ave., East St. Louis.

Winners in Harris School Contest Announced

Tammy La-Broyer, with a safety poster that read "Don't Play with Guns, Nails, Knives and Scissors," won first place in the kindergarten group. Seeond place was won by Wanda Wray with a litter poster reading "Don't Pollute," and third place went to Derrick Newsome whose poster read, "Don't Litter."

The first grade top winner was Norma Bellocoff with a poster about being careful on windy days, and third place went to Lisa Armer with a safety poster.

"Keep Matches Away From

Children," was the title of a poster by a second grade first-place winner, Kathy Hill. Second place went to Djuana McKenzie with a safety poster titled "Only one rider on a Bicycle." Third place in the second grade went to Chester Hedge.

Gwendolyn West, won first prize in the third grade. "We don't want litter in our ponds" was the theme of second-place winner, Debbie Wells, and third place went to David Cooper for his safety poster "Be sure you put out the camp fires."

The opening day of the contest, members of the Madison Police Department visited the class-rooms and talked to the children on safety and keeping the city clean.

Items stressed by the police were developed by the children in their poster themes. The police also passed out coloring books on safety.

Chief of Police Frank Durko spoke on safety to all the children over the school intercom while the uniformed officers visited the rooms.

"The purpose, of course, in this effort is to make our little children as aware as possible of the dangers facing them. We have had three children hit by automobiles and we are grateful that none were killed. However, the pain and suffering caused could have been averted if the children and the drivers were more alert," Cawley said.

First place winners received a blue ribbon with a silver dollar; second place winners received a red ribbon and 75c; and third place winners were given a half dollar and a silver ribbon.

The judging was done by Mrs. Mae Henderson, Mrs. Rose Lawrence and Mrs. Shirley Clark, all members of the Harris School Mothers Club.

Big Contributors To Be Disclosed By Candidates

By W. ALLEN MANNING
Copley News Service

Springfield—Planning to make a political contribution of over $100 to a candidate for federal office?

Contributions will now be governed by the 1971 Federal Election Campaign Act.

The new law requires candidates for president, senator or representative to make public their larger campaign contributors.

They must file papers on June 10, Sept. 10 and before each election with the secretary of state in their home state and with the clerk of the House and the secretary of the Senate in Washington, D.C.

Contribution Data
The law requires each candidate and each of his political committee to list the following information for each person contributing more than $100 during the year:

The contributor's full name, a complete mailing address, occupation and principal place of business, if any, plus the amount and date of the contribution.

It also requires political committees to file reports if they collect or spend more than $1,000 during the year. Under the old law, committees were used extensively to circumvent the $5,000 limit each individual could donate. There is no such limit in the new law.

In addition, the new law places specific limits on the amount of money that can be spent on radio, television, newspaper and magazine advertising and on billboards and paid telephone banks.

The new law also requires the communication media to keep records of all advertising expenditures made with their firm and does not permit them to sell space or broadcast time unless assurance is given by the candidate that the money spent will not put him over the limit.

Limit on Using Own Funds
A candidate and his immediate family is also restricted in the amount of money he can contribute to his own campaign.

The personal spending limits are: $50,000 in a presidential race; $5,000 in a senate race; and $25,000 in a house race.

Direct campaign contributions by a corporation or a labor union are still illegal, but they can establish committees—whereby members can contribute voluntarily.

Persons convicted of violating the law are subject to a fine of $1,000 or a one-year prison sentence.

Nameoki Pupils Confirm the Fact 'You're Never Too Young to Learn'

By VALERIE EVEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

At first glance they appeared a little young to be discussing data processing, optometry, the U.S. postal system, careers in the health field, or life in the U. S. Armed Forces.

Even by today's standards the attentive children seemed slightly out of place listening to a lecture on what skills are required to become a proficient pharmacist or steelmaker.

But the youngsters, whose ages ranged from 9 to 12 years, sat quietly, yet alertly, displaying an obvious interest in the subject under discussion.

They were part of a group of Nameoki School pupils, from Grades 4, 5 and 6, participating in an expanded program of vocational guidance and career education designed especially for the elementary level student.

One aspect of the program started in January and continued through last week, highlighted by a series of talks and discussion sessions led by professionals from widely different occupations.

Successful Program
Donald Kopp, Nameoki principal, rated the vocational career education series both "successful and interesting."

Interest shown by the children became increasingly apparent as the program progressed and they learned to better understand and appreciate the variety of occupations and the requirements and skills needed to work in different fields, the school official said.

The occupational information given lecturers who visited the school in past weeks were top rated individuals in their specific fields, the principal said.

Occupations explored included newspaper publishing, conservation and agriculture, law enforcement, both local and state, health careers, restaurant and catering, banking, dentistry, optometry, data processing, fire department, broadcasting, postal service, veterinary medicine, steelmaking, pharmacy and careers in the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps.

Mrs. Sheryl Evans, a teacher at Nameoki School, was in charge of arranging the guest lecture series, Kopp said.

The elementary occupational information program was developed primarily because of teachers in the local school system expressed a need for such a program through a survey initiated by the office of M. A. Wittevrangel, administrative assistant in charge of vocational education.

Those on the initial workshop committee were Mrs. Anita Winter and Mrs. Patricia Conner, co-chairmen, and Paul Kinsler, Betty Bolt, Estelle Massie, Sharon Owen, Jane Seilheimer, Brenda Heinritz, Casimir Krakowiak and A. J. Mueller.

The elementary occupational information program still is being expanded through the coordinated efforts of Wittevrangel, Vasil Efimoff, director of pupil personnel services and Owen Humphrey, district curriculum coordinator who directed the workshop project.

One major purpose in developing a program of career exploration at the elementary level is to present information which will broaden the base of the youngster's understanding of the world of work.

Accurate knowledge about jobs, presented in a manner understandable to the younger child, will provide a background for the future when they are required to make tentative educational and vocational decisions, the workshop committee stated.

Children Are Unaware
Too frequently a child is found to be totally unaware of his father's occupation, where he works and what it takes to perform the job, the educators learned.

Other children feel they will be able to fulfill any occupation chosen without obtaining the specific knowledge and skills needed. Their ambitions and hopes, in most instances, are unrealistic.

Social and economic factors, or the lack of a father-mother image can combine to rob a child of his self-esteem as he grows up.

Some children whose family has to rely on state or federal financial aid may be led to feel there is no need to become a productive person, studies have disclosed. When the child enters elementary school, his teacher often finds an indifference toward school work or any type of productive undertaking.

Objectives and goals of the total occupational guidance program are concentrated on increasing the child's understanding of his abilities; making a child aware that his self-image will determine his choice of work and way of life; assisting children to develop realistic attitudes and methods in dealing with school achievement as an aspect of vocational.

"All Jobs Worthwhile"
Helping pupils understand that rapid changes taking place in the world of work will necessitate advanced specialized training; helping the child understand that all legitimate occupations are worthwhile; and to provide an opportunity for the youngster's exploration of the aptitude, interest and personality factors necessary on certain jobs.

The educators also believe since a decision making is so thoroughly dependent upon the value of work today in our society, that several decades ago. At that time, the committee said, the problems of recession and its oncoming depression caused people to want the benefits of an affluent society.

Today with this goal a reality, children lack the feeling of achievement and success in work well done by perseverance. It is to re-establish that a man's occupation is his most significant role from which he forms his worth as a person that the career guidance program was initiated at the grade school level.

CLASS DISMISSED, but Nameoki students remain to discuss specific questions about dentistry as a career with Dr. Albert W. Titani, center. Participating in the discussion are Mrs. Pat Gonwa, co-chairman of the Elementary Occupational Information Committee, standing left of the Granite City dentist, and Mrs. Sheryl Evans, lower intermediate teacher at Nameoki School, who arranged the guest lecturers' series.

Joint Responsibility!
In grade school the identification of talents and different patterns of development is a joint responsibility of teacher, counselor and other pupil personnel specialists, the planning committee determined.

Resources throughout the community, relating to different occupations, were compiled into a booklet to permit elementary teachers to arrange for individuals to make personal experience talks to the children and acquire appropriate materials was another aspect of the planning group's task.

Less importance is placed on the value of work today in our society than several decades ago. At that time, the committee said, the problems of recession and its oncoming depression caused people to want the benefits of an affluent society.

Many Yevin Entered In Recipe Contest
A recipe submitted by Mary Yevin, home economics teacher at Granite City High School, has made her an official entrant in the Blue Ribbon Food Fair and eligible for cash awards totaling $5,000.

The national awards program, sponsored by Favorite Recipes Press, is open to home economics teachers in junior and senior high schools. Five finalists will be selected from the hundreds of entrants to participate in the Blue Ribbon Food Fair May 24-25 in Chicago. The finalists will prepare their own recipes for sampling by a panel of judges.

ALL THE FISH YOU CAN EAT
FRIDAY, $1.29 AT GRANTS

At first glance they appeared a little young to be discussing data processing, optometry, the U.S. postal system, careers in the health field, or life in the U. S. Armed Forces.

Even by today's standards the attentive children seemed slightly out of place listening to a lecture on what skills are required to become a proficient pharmacist or steelmaker.

But the youngsters, whose ages ranged from 9 to 12 years, sat quietly, yet alertly, displaying an obvious interest in the subject under discussion.

They were part of a group of Nameoki School pupils, from Grades 4, 5 and 6, participating in an expanded program of vocational guidance and career education designed especially for the elementary level student.

One aspect of the program started in January and continued through last week, highlighted by a series of talks and discussion sessions led by professionals from widely different occupations.

Successful Program
Donald Kopp, Nameoki principal, rated the vocational career education series both "successful and interesting."

Interest shown by the children became increasingly apparent as the program progressed and they learned to better understand and appreciate the variety of occupations and the requirements and skills needed to work in different fields, the school official said.

The occupational information given lecturers who visited the school in past weeks were top rated individuals in their specific fields, the principal said.

Occupations explored included newspaper publishing, conservation and agriculture, law enforcement, both local and state, health careers, restaurant and catering, banking, dentistry, optometry, data processing, fire department, broadcasting, postal service, veterinary medicine, steelmaking, pharmacy and careers in the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps.

Mrs. Sheryl Evans, a teacher at Nameoki School, was in charge of arranging the guest lecture series, Kopp said.

The elementary occupational information program was developed primarily because of teachers in the local school system expressed a need for such a program through a survey initiated by the office of M. A. Wittevrangel, administrative assistant in charge of vocational education.

Those on the initial workshop committee were Mrs. Anita Winter and Mrs. Patricia Conner, co-chairmen, and Paul Kinsler, Betty Bolt, Estelle Massie, Sharon Owen, Jane Seilheimer, Brenda Heinritz, Casimir Krakowiak and A. J. Mueller.

The elementary occupational information program still is being expanded through the coordinated efforts of Wittevrangel, Vasil Efimoff, director of pupil personnel services and Owen Humphrey, district curriculum coordinator who directed the workshop project.

One major purpose in developing a program of career exploration at the elementary level is to present information which will broaden the base of the youngster's understanding of the world of work.

Accurate knowledge about jobs, presented in a manner understandable to the younger child, will provide a background for the future when they are required to make tentative educational and vocational decisions, the workshop committee stated.

Children Are Unaware
Too frequently a child is found to be totally unaware of his father's occupation, where he works and what it takes to perform the job, the educators learned.

Other children feel they will be able to fulfill any occupation chosen without obtaining the specific knowledge and skills needed. Their ambitions and hopes, in most instances, are unrealistic.

Social and economic factors, or the lack of a father-mother image can combine to rob a child of his self-esteem as he grows up.

Some children whose family has to rely on state or federal financial aid may be led to feel there is no need to become a productive person, studies have disclosed. When the child enters elementary school, his teacher often finds an indifference toward school work or any type of productive undertaking.

Objectives and goals of the total occupational guidance program are concentrated on increasing the child's understanding of his abilities; making a child aware that his self-image will determine his choice of work and way of life; assisting children to develop realistic attitudes and methods in dealing with school achievement as an aspect of vocational.

"All Jobs Worthwhile"
Helping pupils understand that rapid changes taking place in the world of work will necessitate advanced specialized training; helping the child understand that all legitimate occupations are worthwhile; and to provide an opportunity for the youngster's exploration of the aptitude, interest and personality factors necessary on certain jobs.

The educators also believe since a decision making is so thoroughly dependent upon the value of work today in our society, that several decades ago. At that time, the committee said, the problems of recession and its oncoming depression caused people to want the benefits of an affluent society.

Today with this goal a reality, children lack the feeling of achievement and success in work well done by perseverance. It is to re-establish that a man's occupation is his most significant role from which he forms his worth as a person that the career guidance program was initiated at the grade school level.

Joint Responsibility!
In grade school the identification of talents and different patterns of development is a joint responsibility of teacher, counselor and other pupil personnel specialists, the planning committee determined.

Resources throughout the community, relating to different occupations, were compiled into a booklet to permit elementary teachers to arrange for individuals to make personal experience talks to the children and acquire appropriate materials was another aspect of the planning group's task.

Less importance is placed on the value of work today in our society than several decades ago. At that time, the committee said, the problems of recession and its oncoming depression caused people to want the benefits of an affluent society.

Coolidge Band Gets Top Rating at Contest

Coolidge Junior High School Concert Band of 80 members, under the direction of Robert D. Todoroff, received the highest award of first superior in the District Band Contest held at East Alton Junior High on Saturday.

The band will now advance to state competition to be held Saturday, April 29, in Herrin.

It is the fifth consecutive superior award in district competition achieved by the Coolidge Band in as many years of participation.

The band presented three selections, "Minuteman March" by R. H. Pearson, "A Jubilant Overture" by Alfred Reed and "Fanfare, Chorale and Fugue" by Cesar Geronvillier for their competition in Class AA.

Three judges offered glowing comments on the performance of the band and musicians.

Judge Jean McCormick re-

"This is the best band I have ever heard from Granite City Junior High. Congratulations. You have worked, the kids have worked and it has paid off."

From Judge Ned Stiebel: "Terrific job. Truly outstanding. A real pleasure to hear y'all. Any high school band should be proud to sound so fine. Congratulations to all involved. Super swell."

From Judge M. L. Cohnmeyer: "Excellent dynamic contrasts. A very versatile band. There isn't much to say after performance like that. Except great job. What a wonderful way to end the day. The students are getting a wonderful music experience. What else is there to say. I think your band is better than it was two years ago. Great work."

Poll to Determine SIU Summer Sessions

On-campus students and some 2,000 teachers throughout Illinois will be polled to see if they think the 12-week summer quarter of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale should be shortened or split.

A subcommittee of SIU's University Senate already has sampled deans and department heads and found that of those responding, 45% would like to see the summer schedule divided into two five and one-half week sessions.

Another 45% declared in favor of a single session only eight weeks long. The remaining 10% prefer the summer quarter just the way it is now, 12 weeks long.

James Benziger, chairman of the Senate's Subcommittee on Calendar and Scheduling, said a survey of student opinion will be launched in the next 10 days. Included in the sample will be 3,500 undergraduates and 2,500 graduate students. Benziger said most undergraduate response is expected from freshmen, sophomores and juniors.

At the same time, 2,600 elementary and secondary school teachers now working in Illinois will be polled by mail. They represent potential summer term graduate students, Benziger said.

St. Joseph Boy Scouts Plan Marquette Trail

Boy Scout Troop 7, sponsored by St. Joseph's Catholic Church, is planning to attend the Marquette Trail of 1972 which is to be held this summer at Boy Scout Camp, Neb.

The purpose of the Marquette Trail is to give Boy Scouts a better understanding of their religious faith and the workings of the Church.

Each year the Marquette Trail takes hundreds of Boy Scouts to various places and institutions connected with one or more facets of religion.

Past years have taken them to Notre Dame University at South Bend, St. Benedict Abbey and DeSales Seminary in Wisconsin, Ipperwash at Ontario, Canada, and St. Augustine, Fla.

Another purpose of the trail is to allow scouts to pass the requirement of one phase of the Marquette Trail award. Since the requirements are challenging, each scout must put forth sufficient effort if he desires to earn the award.

The pilgrimage is a Catholic religious activity and retreat for Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts with settings for meditation and religious discussion as well as provide opportunities to visit outstanding places. Scouts of other faiths are welcome if parents approve.

The scouts will depart Aug. 6 and return Aug. 12, traveling in insured charter buses. Cost $20.

'Stand by Employer,' Secretaries Told

Ben D. Kinnham, executive director of the Illinois Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, was the guest speaker at a monthly dinner meeting of the Tri-Cities Chapter, National Secretaries Association, held last week at Charlie's Restaurant.

Kinnham, who has been connected with the Illinois Tuberculosis Association since 1946, spoke to the secretaries on "Is Your Insecurity Showing?"

Among the informative hints he offered his audience for gaining favorable attention from their bosses and other company executives were — to be enthusiastic about work; not to take too much of their employers' time and to avoid being a "yes man" when he asks for an opinion.

The speaker stressed to the women — "Do not underestimate your value to the organization, and never try to bluff your way through if you are asked a question and do not know the answer."

"Speak Well of Him"

The chronic clock watcher is especially distasteful to an employer, Kinnham said. Each boss wants his secretary to be "the best in town" and hopes she will set a good example for other employees.

Kinnham emphasized that each secretary should remember a basic rule — "If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him. Speak well of him to others and stand by the institution he represents."

The guest speaker, who is active in Springfield, was accompanied by his secretary, Miss Jane Brancato, and three other members of the Abraham Lincoln Secretaries Chapter of Springfield — Miss Margaret Hill, chapter president, Mrs. Helen Burch and Mrs. Myrtle McCormick.

Mrs. McCormick, Illinois Division treasurer, spoke briefly, complimenting the chapter on its gain in membership. She commented that the Great Lakes District is leading in membership gains and also has the largest membership in the U. S. in the high school level Future Secretaries Association.

Miss Twila Edmonds, president, announced that 14 members and a guest will attend the Illinois Division meeting in Rockton, on May 19.

In attendance were 31 chapter committee members, 16 associate matrons and 23 visiting businesswomen. The subject "People Like You," was a two new positions for the degrees of the Order were received.

The table appointments were in keeping with the spring season and refreshments were served after the meeting at the dining room.

PRUNING YOUNG TREES

In the first years prune lightly to correct structural weakness and direct growth. Leave more limbs than you need.

Pruning young trees will depend on the tree's natural growth habit and its landscape purpose. Sweet gum and hackberry are equal sized trees but sweet gum develops as a straight tree with small branches while hackberry develops as a round topped tree with large branches. It is difficult to change the growth character of either, but easy to improve on their natural characteristic.

Prevent double trunks by pruning out one of the competitive shoots. When several years have elapsed, heavily prune one side to a branch to reduce competition while the dwarfing effect of heavy pruning delays regrowth. The surviving shoot will quickly become the main shoot and develop balanced branching on new growth.

Branch spacing effects the growth of the top as well as the strength of the tree. Several limbs from one point on the trunk prevents sap flow to the top and chokes the top and upper branches. Radial distribution should allow 5-7 permanent limbs. Spacing along the trunk of a tall tree may be 4-6 feet between limbs while 18-24 inches on dwarf trees. In young saplings leave more limbs than you need, as insurance and to promote trunk development. Lateral branches should be smaller than the trunk. Whenever a trunk or branch forks, one branch should be larger than the other.

Temporary branches (new shoots) on the trunk will strengthen the trunk and protect it from sunburn. The trunk will increase more rapidly in base diameter if laterals grow along it. These are easily removed or pruned back as the tree develops.

CONTROLLING SIZE OF TREES

Pruning shade trees results in dwarfing by removing part of the leaves and starving the roots.

Vigorous growth is the first response to pruning as reserves of food in the limbs and trunk are used to produce new shoots and vigorous growth. Fewer leaves result in less production of food for fall and winter growth in succeeding years.

Thinning-out pruning will produce the dwarfing effect while it maintains good form. Periodic thinning as the tree reaches the desired size is necessary to maintain the dwarfing effect.

Both thinning and heading back (topping) produce dwarfing effect on the roots. But the growth response is different.

Thinning will reduce height and spread by pruning back branches to lower laterals (drop crotchings) and total removal of some limbs. Regrowth from thinning is evenly spread throughout the tree.

Topping reduces height and spread by cutting back to large limbs. Regrowth is vigorous and upright from the stubs. New branches form a compact top, cast dense shade and are weakly attached.

Withholding fertilizer and heavy competition from grass and shrubs also dwarfs trees. Fertile soils in our area complicates this plan but the theory is sound.

A rule of thumb is to thin trees to maintain a smaller size and good health about every 10 years. Thinning should not remove more than 25 percent of the limbs and twigs.

Occasionally pruning promotes annual flowers while you maintain modest size and good form.

Flowering trees which bear fruit benefit from pruning to prevent an overtopped one year and absence of flowers the next. Both late winter pruning or late spring pruning accomplish the same results.

Late winter pruning removes a portion of the limbs which would flower and develop fruit. Pruning after bloom removes the branches before the fruit develops and shifts the growth to the remaining fruit and new growth for next years flowers.

Pruning sapling trees will delay flowering. One or two limbs can be removed to improve form but rose pruning is excessive until annual flowering occurs.

Flowering trees like Red Bud, Dogwood and Magnolia do not require pruning to maintain vigor and a good flowering display. But light pruning will maintain a better view of the main limbs and encourage flowering throughout the tree, instead of concentrating the flowers on the outside of the tree.

Flowering Crab-apples require regular pruning to maintain a modest size and encourage uniform distribution of flowers. Remove sprouts or larger limbs which add excessive height to the tree.

Space the low limbs or larger branches to permit sunlight to reach every limb. Do not cut back small twigs. To control a small limb prune back to a strong twig.

Spacing the branches reveals the character of limbs and trunk as well as promoting flower development throughout the tree. Paint cuts larger than one inch in diameter with a tree paint to discourage borers.

PRUNING ROSES

Prune your roses in early spring to remove the dead wood and create a compact plant.

Fall pruning and winter mulching of hybrid teas and floribundas protects the crown from freezing and winter kill but your roses require the final touch to promote vigorous growth.

When new shoots are 4-6 inch long remove the mulch and prune away the dead wood to the nearest healthy bud. When several canes have a profusion of new buds cut each cane back to a 10 or 12 inch stub. If winter kill is severe you may find only one or two surviving buds. Gradually use well established canes also pruned to remove dead wood and weak twigs.

Climbing and rambling roses develop long canes and eventually are pruned after the bloom. Spring pruning is not necessary unless you were unable to prune last summer. Save 3-4 one canes while you prune off the older canes which flowered last year. Replace the lost canes on your trellis and wall developments.

Pesky tent caterpillars have begun to appear. Small eggs can be found on apple, wild cherries and many vegetable trees.

Turning out the nest is the way to control this army of worms, but new insecticides have simplified the procedure. One spray application (Ferti-bary) or malathion will knock out the entire colony, especially when the worms are small.

Carefully spray the trunks and foliage near the nest instead of concentrating at the nest.

A WINDOW SILL GARDEN

Some gardeners get a trip on spring by starting dwarfed flowers in window-sill gardens. Small pots of seedlings are not too decorative but creates an adventure in gardening as the small seeds produce a family of eager plants.

Timing is important to produce plants ready for transplanting without being too overgrown and spindly. The first of May is the planting ideal for tender petunias and marigolds. A few gardeners insist the last

Governor Glad Court Will Hear Appeal on Personal Property Tax

By GOVERNOR RICHARD B. OGILVIE

It's a wonderful feeling to step off a plane from Europe and get the best news of this year.

I am referring to the decision of the United States Supreme Court to hear our appeal in the personal property tax case.

No doubt you recall how overwhelmingly the voters approved ending all personal property taxation of individuals in the November, 1970, referendum.

Many of us who had fought this hated tax for years thought the battle was won — but Illinois courts decided otherwise.

Now we can hope again, because the highest court in the land may respond affirmatively to the best legal arguments we can muster.

To help our attorney general, William J. Scott, in the case, I filed a brief of my own in January, acting both as governor and as a friend of the court.

That's a legal term, of course, but I'm feeling definitely friendly after hearing that the case has been accepted for review.

The court's announcement this past week was also coupled with another significant but overlooked action.

The court denied the petition of the firm which originally brought suit and won a favorable decision in Illinois courts.

The effect of the firm's petition was to seek the exemption of all corporations from personal property taxation — in addition to individuals.

Thus the Supreme Court in

Granite City PRESS-RECORD

Washington has only one issue before it:

Can a distinction be made for tax purposes between real individuals and the fictitious identity of corporations as "individuals"?

The Illinois courts ruled that no such distinction could be made because it denies to corporations the equal protection of the 14th amendment to the United States Constitution.

Yet case after case has been decided in the opposite way, and indeed, our federal and state tax structures are sharply different for individuals than they are for corporations.

The mere fact that the case was accepted for review is significant in itself — perhaps one case in 150 actually reaches the high court.

Lawyers learn to be cautious in their predictions, but believe me, I am hopeful.

One amazing outgrowth of the unfavorable decision of the Illinois courts is the accusation I sometimes hear that somehow I talked the Illinois Supreme Court into its unfavorable decision.

I certainly don't blame people who hate the tax for being mad at the Illinois decision.

But I don't tell the court what to do, nor do the justices discuss cases out of court — and certainly not with a lawyer-governor who later declares in public legal language that the Illinois decision ignored or misapplied many contrary decisions.

While we wait for hearings in Washington, I will push hard for personal property tax relief for our farmers.

They simply cannot wait for relief on the chance that the referendum will be upheld some months from now.

They need and deserve help right now, and I will ask our legislators to bury their differences and get cracking.

As to my recent trip with my family — which left me raring to go — I can only report like the ordinary tourist:

It was wonderful seeing the things and the people we saw, but it's great to be back home.

It isn't every day that a Scotch Presbyterian has a library named after him in Israel, and a private audience with the Pope in Rome.

The Pope was most gracious, and I was pleased to give him a bronze likeness of Lincoln which was the model for the Lincoln penny.

Anyone traveling abroad must be struck by the noise and polluted atmosphere of some of the major European cities.

It appeared quite evident to me that we in Illinois have recognized the danger sooner, and have acted more quickly to control pollution.

The traffic in Rome, for example, is fierce, and many of the once-beautiful piazzas of public squares are now little more than huge outdoor parking lots.

Free bus rides in rush hour were announced during our stay in Rome, but it remains to be seen whether this will cut down the volume of private auto traffic.

YMCA to Sponsor Fund-Raising Walk

"Miles For Mankind, 2 1/2 mile walk sponsored by Granite City YMCA to raise funds for the needs of the local Y, will take place Saturday, May 13, at 8 a.m. on May 13 at the First Granite City National Bank parking lot.

The plan is for "walkers" to approach relatives, friends, neighbors or business men to serve as sponsors. A sponsor is to agree to pay a specified amount for every mile walked. Each walker can have many sponsors as he or she obtains and payments may range from 15 cents to several dollars, the officials said.

Following the walk, each participant contacts his sponsor and collects the amount pledged in the form of a check made out to the YMCA of Granite City, for Mankind.

Checkpoints will be set up at each mile, where "walkers" will have their check-point card marked. The walk will start at 8 a.m. on May 13 at the First Granite City National Bank parking lot.

The public is invited to take part in the event. Sponsorships, waivers, check-point cards and maps of the route may be obtained at the YMCA or from any of the committee members: Janet Lambert, Sandy Kirksey, Debbie Funk, Elaine Todoroff, Karen Kibort, Lana Lupardus, Mike Ripoff, Ed Tabaka, or Chuck Hassel, Youth Director, or either of the two co-chairmen.

Former Madison Resident Honored By Treasury

A former employee of First National Bank in Madison who retired as senior national bank examiner for the U. S. Treasury Department, has been honored by the Secretary of the Treasury's Meritorious Service Award.

Frank E. Brown of Denton, Texas, a former Granite City resident, was honored for "outstanding contributions to the stability and security of the banking industry by his timely and knowledgeable handling of many complex and delicate situations," according to the citation.

The honor was presented to Brown by John D. Gwin, deputy controller of the currency, acting on behalf of Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Brown was appointed an assistant national bank examiner in 1938 and received his commission as a national bank examiner in 1949.

In 1966 he was designated a senior national bank examiner before moving to Texas.

Brown is the brother of Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Hallie Brown and Mrs. Lois Moore of Madison and Mrs. Justine Carter of St. Louis. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Brown Sr.

Adoption Pace Rising, Aided by Listing Plan

Copley News Service

Springfield — At first glance, it could be a listing for a home for sale, showing age, color, condition and any special features.

Closer inspection shows that what is being offered is not a house, five rooms with bath, but a child, five years old, with problems.

Borrowing the idea of the realtor's multiple listing service, the Adoption Listing Service for the last six months has been trying to fit the "special" child with the "special" adoptive family registering either youngsters or potential adoptive families, or both, and distributing the registrations to various public and private agencies throughout the state.

The Service, a project of the Child Care Association of Illinois, updates and revises the loose-leaf entries weekly. Printing of the listing is done, without charge, by the Springfield Board of Realtors.

Once the special child and the specially-qualified family are found for each other, problems sometimes arise because the family cannot afford the adoption costs and the possibly continuing medical and special costs after adoption.

To reduce that barrier, the State Department of Children and Family Services has adopted a program of "subsidized" adoption, in which state financial help can continue even after adoption is finalized, in cases which meet the particular standards involved.

The first "multiple listing" book went out on Sept. 7. In a little over six months, there were 186 children listed and 239 families registered, with a total of 138 children placed.

Rev. Charles Filson, listing service coordinator, says this does not necessarily mean 138 completed adoptions, since one or two placements in each hundred do not work out, and the child is re-listed as available.

In addition to placements through the registry, there were 932 telephone inquiries involving either families or children, neither of whom were listed, and these resulted in some additional adoptions.

Between Sept. 7 and March 6, the service aided 32 black youngsters and 18 black girls. Five youngsters and eight families involving mixed blacks and whites were handled, while there were 21 white youngsters and 18 white families served.

There were seven children and 116 families listed as "other," for an overall total of 65 children and 53 families. In addition, 56 families listed received children who were not registered for a total of 121 child placements.

In the same period, Child and Family Service figures show 311 approved subsidies with 210 completed adoptions, with some others still pending. A total of 140 black, 162 white and nine "other" children were covered by subsidized proceedings. 194 of them male and 127 female.

There were 33 under two years old, 148 between two and six and 139 over six years.

Another new approach is shown in "single parent adoptions," with 24 children legally awarded to 21 single parents who were either unmarried, divorced or widowed. Children involved included 63 physically handicapped, nine retarded, four emotionally disturbed, and 15 with multiple handicaps.

In approximately 85% of the subsidized adoptions, children were adopted by foster families with whom they had already lived for sometime — where emotional ties already existed, the families had proved they were willing and able to take the child, and the state was heavy to give up foster parents' financial aid to assume full responsibility.

The program has drastically cut into the number of "waiting" children—few black babies are currently available in Chicago, for instance, and there are couples waiting to adopt them.

But some others remain, including severely physically, mentally or emotionally handicapped, as well as black boys over three, school-age black girls and older white youngsters.

Three Venice Boys Charged in Burglary

Three 14-year-old Venice boys were charged with burglary after they were arrested at Steel Haulers, Inc., 1301 Marjett St., Madison, at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

The youths allegedly broke a window on the north side of the building to enter and set off a burglar alarm. Madison and Venice police responded and saw one youth leaving through a window, carrying a typewriter, officers said.

He was arrested and a police dog was brought to the building. A second youth inside the building surrendered when officers threatened to set the dog loose in the building. The third boy also was found inside, police said.

Officers reported that a typewriter, a large hammer, a battery jumper cable and an alarm clock, all taken from inside the building, were found outside under the window through which the one boy was seen leaving. The items were returned to the company.

Encourage Rural Resettlement, Prof Says

Government and regional planners should encourage rural resettlement in southwestern Illinois and throughout America to promote ecological balance, says William Weismantel, professor of earth sciences at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern.

Speaking recently to the Missouri Planning Association, Weismantel urged planners to drop the image of America "as large metropolitan areas separated by thinly settled greenbelts, scenic rivers, wildlife preserves, land banks and restored prairies."

Instead, Weismantel said, planners should work for an American landscape where human settlements, animal communities and plant life are distributed evenly and all are healthy.

"Rural resettlement doesn't mean the disappearance of Chicago, St. Louis, greater Kansas City and other metropolitan giants, but rather that metropolitan residents and future generations should have the option to reject suburban life and settle, like frontiersmen of an earlier time, close to the American land," said Weismantel, who earned his law degree and a Ph.D. in city and regional planning from Harvard University.

Awareness of Problem Weismantel noted a trend, in conjunction with increased public awareness of ecological problems, of states such as Hawaii and Vermont adopting statewide development regulations favoring plant and animal communities over new human settlements in rural regions. Weismantel predicted Illinois and Missouri may follow the trend, cutting off some persons from returning to nature.

"Americans in their zeal to conserve and restore the nation's soil, forests, prairies and clean water are cutting themselves off from intimate touch with these natural resources," he said.

Controls over rural settlement have extensive support among suburbanites "who crowd into state and national parks on weekends and during vacations, but who have little personal opportunity to resettle permanently deep in the countryside," Weismantel said.

Though rural resettlement for all socioeconomic classes is not politically popular now, he said, resettlement in areas of natural beauty is more possible than ever before "because the rural corners of the states are served by freeways, power grids, television, direct dialing, private community colleges or a state university, airports and other urban services."

New Rural Elite Weismantel said he foresees the coming of "a new rural elite" composed largely of high-income families, taking control of undeveloped land in conjunction with corporate interests. Such an elite would aggravate already existing uneven population distribution by setting up barriers to rural resettlement that low and middle income families and minority groups will find difficult to overcome, he said.

Uneven population distribution is evident already in the Lower Kaskaskia area of Illinois. Weismantel said, where 76% of the population of five counties (St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph, Clinton and Washington) is in St. Clair County, in the northwest corner of a region filled with attractive landscapes.

"About 88% of the blacks of the region are in St. Clair County," Weismantel said. "Studies made at SIU-SW indicate jobs in this region will increase more than 100% during the next 30 years, and that 88% of the new jobs will be located beyond St. Clair County in one of the more remote counties. But there are several obstacles to resettlement of St. Clair County residents to scenic rural locations near these new jobs."

Major Obstacles Weismantel said major obstacles will be suburban attitudes supporting statewide regulations to conserve rural areas, the "leave-us-alone" attitude of the new rural elite and a lack of public-based land development agencies to accomplish resettlement.

To meet these obstacles, Weismantel suggested existing state agencies and institutions of higher learning be granted authority to sponsor rural settlements, including granting of extramural powers to large cities and new settlements in remote areas.

"A state agency with power to build new towns and rural settlements is also desirable and such powers could be conferred on non-profit groups such as churches, trade unions, cooperatives and voluntary organizations," Weismantel said.

"Private building contractors, architects, franchises and other forms of free enterprise would be partners in new settlements, with overall design made by the public development agency."

This public-private partnership has proven a stimulus to private enterprise in such inner-city programs as urban renewal and Turkey public housing.

The fees were approved by the electors at the township board meeting.

Copley News Service

Springfield—For years, those in charge of the Illinois State Fair have ballyhooed that each year's offering would be "bigger, better and a new departure" from previous fairs.

Each year, the same fair, basically, has been held, and each year it lost money—again.

This year, if the Illinois state fair isn't really bigger, better and healthier financially, one of the most surprised people will be Robert Park, for the last six months general manager of the century-old exposition.

One thing is certain. It is going to be a different fair this August.

It will cost 50 cents more to get through the gate, but once on the grounds, all the entertainment will be free, including grandstand, coliseum and the new "Children's World" events.

Only exception will be the U. S. Auto Club-sanctioned auto races before the grandstand on the last three days of the fair. Otherwise, change is the name of the game at the state fair these days.

Veterans' Day has been moved from the first Sunday to the last Sunday.

Displays and exhibits have changed location including Happy Hollow, which won't be in the hot and humid "Hollow" any more.

And there is a fresh, contemporary look to the grandstand attractions, with bookings like the Fifth Dimension and Sonny and Cher.

The grandstand stage is being rebuilt, lowered two and a half feet, for better visibility from all angles, and more track chairs will be used, bringing total seating capacity to 15,000 for each performance. There will be two shows, both free, each evening, at 6 and 9.

"If our new policy doesn't swell the family attendance, I'll be very much surprised," says Park.

Park, who has been associated with fair business all his adult life, also feels "If you don't learn in 16 years, you're an idiot," and is convinced from both theory and experience that the new policies will mean more money and less deficit this year.

They tell me I shouldn't guess," he says. "But I'll be disappointed if we don't cut off that deficit this year."

In fact, if the new policies had been in use last year, without drawing one more person to the fairgrounds, the fair would have come within $8,000 of taking in the same amount it did. And he's sure his policies will attract lots more people to the fair.

"We've got to be reasonable," he says. "People like me, with four children, spending a day at the fair including grandstand shows, a day buying tickets for everything, would spend $30 or more. Not many people today can do that."

But now, for the $7 gate fee, we can spend the day, see exhibits, free concerts and talent, harness races, a dog show, or big name talent, for no more money."

Agriculturally, Park is convinced the Illinois State Fair is the strongest anywhere, but that it needs bolstering in such areas as entertainment.

The last two years, he said, the grandstand was only 40% filled. In previous years, there were bigger crowds, but many of those were getting in on huge blocks of free tickets—which didn't make any money for the fair.

Many state fairs, he says, make "serious" money, but Illinois won't join that self-supporting group as long as it is designed with ancient buildings "designed for maximum upkeep and maintenance cost."

There hasn't been a new Fair building on the grounds in 20 years, he says, and now a proposed change in public bidding financing is delaying start of construction on a new building to replace the razed Textile building and one to replace the dilapidated supply building.

ARTIST AT WORK. Robert Allen puts final touches on an article of pottery that will be on exhibit at the St. Louis Art Museum Saturday and Sunday. A former Granite Cityan, Allen will demonstrate techniques of making pottery on a wheel.

PLANS BAKE SALE

The Arlington Heights Women's Club met Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Connie Strothide, 1 Shirwin Drive, with Mrs. Mary Lou Richardson presiding.

It was reported that approximately 85 area children received Easter treats the day before Easter Sunday.

The club-sponsored bake sale will be held May 13 at Schermer's Hardware Store in Pontoon Beach. The possibility of a second location was discussed, and it was decided to sponsor two booths if another location is obtained. Co-chairmen of the event are Mrs. Rose Verdu and Mrs. Charlene Pohlman.

Following the business session, Mrs. Lenis Blackburn of the Peaceful Valley Youth ranch in Carlville, described the workings of the home operated for neglected or abandoned boys. She thanked the club for chocolate bunnies sent to the ranch at Easter. Following a question and answer period, the club decided to do what it can for the 27 boys living at the ranch.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames June Ybarra, Lois Bradford, Pat Singleton, June Theodorakis, Rose Verdu, Faye Hester, Pat Lewis, Francisca

Rawden, Charlene Miller, Sharon Hodshire, Sheila Shafer, Mary Lou Richardson, and Connie Strothide.

GC Man Visits Holy Land, Baptized in River Jordan

"One of the most exciting days of my life was the day I left St. Louis enroute to New York and eventually the Holy Land where I was baptized in the River Jordan," Bryan L. Waggoner, 214 Grand Ave., said after his return home from the ten-day tour.

"It was the start of a life-time dream come true. All my life I wanted to go to the Holy Land, but it seemed there was always something in the way," he added.

Waggoner was one of 65 persons who composed the tour arranged by the Lester family of St. Louis. He learned of the plans for the overseas trip through an advertisement on a television program.

After many delays in completing arrangements and itineraries for the trip, the group gathered on a Saturday morning at the Lester Music Store, 2008 South 39th St., St. Louis, where they boarded a bus bound for New York.

Arrived in New York
"We arrived in New York the next morning and although there was only a few hours of leisure time, we managed to visit some of the interesting sites, including the Empire State Building and Statue of Liberty," Waggoner related.

The next day was a busy one with the group checking luggage, making final checks on passports and completing other last-minute details. At 5:30 that evening the travelers boarded a Sabena jet plane for Brussels, Belgium, on the first phase of the journey.

Arriving in Belgium the next morning, they changed planes for the next stop in Rome, Italy and on to Tel Aviv, Israel. Buses waiting at the Lod Airport in Israel transported the group to their motels, where they stayed four days.

Taken to Hospital
"Much to my disappointment I became ill the following morning and was taken to the hospital by Mrs. Lester. All the time the folks on tour were praying for me. My roommate, the Rev. R. E. Middleton of the Assembly of God Church, Bourbon, Mo., prayed constantly for my recovery," Mr. Waggoner recounted.

The entourage left the Holy City of Jerusalem and journeyed to the Jordan River and Sea of Galilee where the weather was almost perfect with a temperature of 75 degrees.

All 65 members of the touring group gathered on the bank of the river as the Rev. Middleton and the Rev. Marler of Sandy Baptist Church, Pewee, Mo., conducted the baptismal service in the river for 11 of the group.

"This was a dream come true," Waggoner said. "I thank the Lord for letting me come this far by faith and I know it was by his goodness and mercy, and the prayers of the many folks on the tour that I was able to live to see this part of my life ambition come true."

Enroute home a two-day visit was made in Rome. Here they visited many points of interest before retracing the journey and returning home.

Famed Pianist to Play in SIU-SW Benefit
"Around the World with the Keyboard," a musical adventure featuring pianist Ruth Slenczynska, will be presented at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the Communications Building theater at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern.

In the benefit presentation, sponsored by Friends of Lovejoy Library, Miss Slenczynska will tell of her life as an artist. She has been performing around the world since she was a child.

Miss Slenczynska will draw on her experiences with such famous teachers as Arthur Schnabel, Alfred Cortot, Egon Petri, Nadia Boulanger and Rachmaninoff and tours with Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops.

Buchanan Was Cocky, Conceited In Young Teens

Editor's Note: James Buchanan, 1791-1868, was a Pennsylvanian who became 15th president of the United States at the age of 67. He had hoped to be known as a peacemaker but he was reviled by many who thought he could have, or should have, prevented the Civil War. This is another in a series on what famous people were like in their teens.

By BETT ANDERSON
Copley Press News Service
James Buchanan was a cocky teenager. He was spoiled by his mother and all of his small sisters looked up to him. This went to his head and he was a pretty obnoxious 15-year-old. Even his father was sure that James was born to be great.

Fortunately, however, his father also believed in making his cocky son toe the mark. His constant criticism and fault-finding kept James' head from getting too out-sized.

James left the Buchanan's two-story brick house in Mercersburg, Pa., early every morning to attend Old Stone Academy. The countryside was so beautiful that it looked like a postcard. In winter there was ice-skating on the frozen ponds and in warmer weather the old swimming hole was crowded.

At 16, James thought it would be groovy if he could go to college. Mr. Buchanan wanted his son to help with the farm. But he also wanted James to have an education so he could get a good job and assist the family financially. So he sent him to

New Admissions Form Planned by SIU-SW

Students planning to enter Southern Illinois University-Southwestern in the fall of 1973 will apply on a statewide common admissions application form approved by the state Board of Higher Education (BHE).

The BHE accepted recommendations of its technical committee for the development of a Common Admissions Application Form. Robert Burkhart, director of admissions and records, is a committee member.

The common form will replace the 13 different undergraduate application forms now being used by state colleges and universities.

"In designing the common form it was recognized by all the members that each of the represented institutions would have to make adjustments in admission procedures," the committee report said.

"This was not an insurmountable obstacle and agreement was reached concerning the data elements to be part of the form. The use of a common admissions application will be a valuable first step in clarifying and simplifying the admissions procedures for students, parents and high school counselors."

Braker said the BHE staff will provide new forms to SIU-SW later this year, at which time current application forms will be picked up from high schools and other locations and destroyed.

Dickinson College in Carlisle with the instruction that he was to prepare for a law course.

At first, James took college seriously. Then he realized that the other students looked on him as a square. He wanted to become a big wheel on campus. So he changed his tactics. He began to smoke and drink and became a major in rowdiness.

When he went home on vacation, the college expelled him. This was a blow to his vanity. He begged to be readmitted and promised to study and behave. He kept his promise and won top academic honors. But the faculty, remembering his conceit and arrogant attitude, put him down by appointing another student the class valedictorian. That bugged James.

At 18, James went to Lancaster to read law in a prestigious law office. He was determined to behave and be someone. After graduation, he entered politics. He became a very successful young man as he had once dreamed. But it's doubtful that, even in his cocky teens, he ever thought that one day he would be the 15th president of the United States.

New Program Designed For Jr. College Grads

Graduates of job-related programs at junior colleges are being given a chance to design their own course toward a bachelor's degree on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

"Project Capstone," an experiment starting this fall, will guarantee selected students that they can earn a baccalaureate in a maximum of 96 quarter-hours if they provide that much in transfer credits.

In the past, graduates of two-year occupational programs at community colleges have had to sacrifice some credits that wouldn't apply to normal four-year degrees at SIU.

Jerre Pfaff, director of admissions, said the 15 JC graduates selected for the experimental project will be given credit for work experience as well as "general competency."

Object of the "Capstone" program will be to train personnel for industrial management and as occupational instructors for junior colleges. Such a training program has been requested by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Lettermen's Sound Is Caressing to the Ear

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

Now and then it is necessary for one, even though a lover of pop, rock and jazz, to break away and listen to some music that caresses the ears instead of rupturing them.

Perhaps one of the best groups on record today which can bring to you a sound as soft as an ocean breeze or cut loose with a toe-tapping goodie, is The Lettermen.

The trio, which consists of Tony Butala, Jim Pike and Gary Pike, has a unique sound with which you can live intimately, and the results have been gold albums, one right after another.

Two of their latest platters released are "Lettermen II" and "The Lettermen-Love Book," both on Capitol labels and both equally as fine as their other million sellers.

One reason for the group's longevity and success is their ability to do justice to any song they might sing. In fact, at times it is hard to tell whether it's The Lettermen doing a song or the original group.

In keeping pace with the times, "Lettermen II" includes such contemporary hits as "Anticipation," "An Old-Fashioned Love Song," "White Lies, Blue Eyes" and "Never Been To Spain."

Musical Scrapbook
The album "Love Book" is a collection of love songs that form a musical scrapbook of memories. It includes such songs as "Wedding Song (There Is Love)," the theme from "Love Story" which is a solo by Jim, "Ain't No Sunshine," a solo by Tony, "I'll Be Gary" and "How Can You Mend A Broken Heart?"

Taking a look into the boys' background, we find that Tony made his singing debut at the age of 8 on a radio show in his home town of Sharon, Pa.

When his family moved to Los Angeles, he was accepted by the famed Mitchell Boys Choir, and his professional musical career began.

Jim Pike was born in St. Louis, Mo., and after serving in the U. S. Navy, he moved to Los Angeles. He attended Brigham Young University in Utah and started singing with campus groups. After college, he formed a group called The Damons, which sang with Stan Kenton in Las Vegas.

When the group disbanded, he returned to Los Angeles where he met Tony. They discussed their views and feelings about forming a vocal group, their musical ideas were the same, the name was chosen, and The Lettermen were in business.

Gary is Jim's younger brother and rounds out the group. He was born in Twin Falls, Idaho, and attended local schools until his family moved to Los Angeles. He attended El Camino College but left to join The Lettermen after Jim and Tony auditioned him.

Versatility, Appeal
In the years that followed, the trio has appeared at more than 2,000 colleges and universities across the country. Their twenty or more cross-country tours have netted them many a SRO crowd, largely due to their versatility and appeal to all age groups.

Unlike most vocal groups, The Lettermen all have the same range and easily interchange parts. All three are accomplished soloists in their own right, which is evidenced by their solo efforts on "Love Book."

Besides cutting albums and hitting the concert circuit, the fellows have established themselves as major nightclub and hotel entertainers. Their stage performances are of great appeal to audiences because they perform songs that are familiar to all, some new and some old.

Things are going good for The Lettermen, who have just recently formed The Lettermen, Inc., their own production company. Under this banner comes "Love Book" and "Lettermen II," truly a set of nice, easy listening quality, fine and unforced albums.

ALL ABOUT ALBUMS

"Get Out Of Bed," popular on both AM and FM radio today, is a good start for "Liv." Livingston Taylor's second album on the Capricorn label. It is one of the better songs.

Some of the songs on this album are heavy with typical Taylor family sentiment and nostalgia. After a while it is trying to listen to however, and you can only swallow so much mush.

The flip side is more spirited. Backing by a bunch of good musicians and some fine effort from Livingston enliven and save the album from becoming a nasal pathos of emotion.

"Truck Driving Man," "On Broadway," "Be That Way" and "Caroline" are songs that will make Taylor fans of James or Livingston happy. It's getting hard to tell them apart. Dion's most recent album, "Sanctuary," on Warner Bros. is a cohesive, pleasing blend of past and present.

"The Wanderer," "Abraham, Martin and John" and "Ruby Baby" are Dion hits played into contemporary musical acceptance.

However, the gentle, uncomplex style of Dion can't be appreciated in the title song, "Sanctuary," and "Hymn," one of Dion's own compositions.

These two songs form a theme of peacefulness and love that sets the mood for most of the cuts on this album.

"Sanctuary" is a warm and welcome album.

Proficiency Exams Give Students Credit

Students on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale passed 4,897 courses last year even though they didn't attend a single class meeting.

They earned credit by passing proficiency examinations, tests of their knowledge in certain courses. If they show well enough on the tests, they can move on to more specialized courses and frequently graduate ahead of schedule.

Robert McGrath, dean of admissions and records, said nearly 8,000 exams were given altogether, almost 500 more than in 1970. One student earned 46 quarter hours of proficiency-exam credit, just two below what is considered a full academic year of successful work. Forty-eight hours is the most proficiency credit allowed toward graduation.

While the number of "bypass" examinations increased, the failure rate also escalated. A total of 3,065 examinations netted no credit "D" or "F" grades, compared to 1,646 the year before.

McGrath said the figure of 4,897 courses passed by proficiency examination "doesn't mean that many different students took them. Nearly 800 students 'proficiencyed out' of two to three courses, while another 247 earned credits by exam in four to five.

More than 210 students earned their way around six to 13 different courses. According to McGrath, most examinations were taken in basic general studies courses—nearly three-fourths of the total. Another 1,273 involved courses under specific departments, and 176 were recorded at the Vocational-Technical Institute.

Man Struck on Head

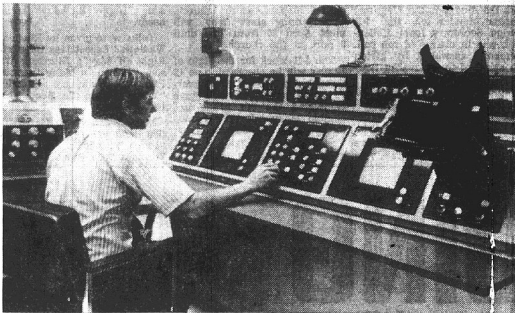

James Lance, 2111a Delmar Ave., reported at 9:10 p.m. Monday that he was struck on the side of the head with an iron bar about two-feet long during an argument over an ice box which he had damaged. He suffered a one-inch gash but refused medical treatment. The assailant ran, he said.

Patient Returned

A 45-year-old Madison man, who left Alton State Mental Hospital, on a patient's pass and did not return, was taken into custody Monday at his home in the 900 block of Greenwood Street, Madison, and was returned to the hospital.

Disorderly Charge

Paul E. Travis, 36, of 1409 Washington Ave., was charged with disorderly conduct and destruction of property at 5:30 a.m. Tuesday after allegedly kicking and breaking the front and rear doors of his wife's home, 1409 Washington Ave., according to police.

HIGH-POWER INSTRUMENT. S. William Whitson, assistant professor at the School of Dental Medicine, Southern Illinois University-Southwestern, tests the scanning microscope just installed on the Alton campus. The sophisticated, high-powered microscope generates a stream of particles that hits the surface of an object being studied and reflects off, producing a picture, according to Dr. J. B. Whitten, chairman of the dental school's department of pathology. The microscope, one of only a few in Illinois, is useful as a research tool in the study of dental caries and other dental health problems, Whitten said.

Clinic Study Offer Given 708 Board

A presentation by representatives of Cresap, McCormick & Paget, Inc., Chicago consultants, explaining methods of evaluating the effectiveness of mental health clinics, was given to the Madison County Mental Health (708) Board at its regular meeting Monday night in the Madison County Courthouse at Edwardsville.

The board members requested the firm evaluate the time necessary to conduct the study and the anticipated cost, and report back at the next meeting.

The board last month asked the R. C. Scheffel & Co., accountants of Alton, to prepare time and cost estimates on the same study.

"We want to get bids from more than one firm for the study," Ralph Yemm, chairman of the board, said.

The study, if approved, will examine the operation of the 708 financed clinics, including the Quin-City Clinic here, and will recommend changes for improving the system.

IS OUR HOUSE THE BEST VALUE IN TOWN TODAY???
We Think So—and Heres' Why... In our opinion the Basement House, in the Granite City area, will increase in value, over the value of a non-basement or slab house with a garage, to the extent that its increased value should, within ten years, be worth the price of a new car to you.

The basement home, has the advantage of easy and inexpensive expansion for additional bedroom or family room, while you are making money living in it.

In other words... the basement house has better, quicker, and higher re-sale value.

2 YEAR 24,000 MILE WARRANTY

It makes a Volkswagen more beautiful than any other economy car.

Every Volkswagen is guaranteed for 24 months or 24,000 miles. Most other economy cars are guaranteed only 12 months or 12,000 miles. We may not be the most beautiful economy car in the world. But we have the most beautiful guarantee. *If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear on service items) will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge. See your dealer for details.

Canada Increases Patrols To Enforce Arctic Claims

By GREG CONNOLLEY
Copley News Service

Ottawa—The Canadian armed forces are beginning to enforce sovereignty in the Arctic in accordance with a new policy that sees Russians and Americans as potential trespassers. Command posts have been set up in the north and the land detachments have been strengthened. More aircraft patrol the huge Arctic territories.

All this is to show the world—that the world is watching—that Canada claims its Arctic and is enforcing sovereignty.

Thus far there hasn't been anyone around to challenge that sovereignty, nor does it seem likely any nation will do so in the foreseeable future.

In the absence of any "enemy" the armed forces have had to do something to earn their pay and they are working hard at learning military techniques as they should be practiced in the vast and frozen north.

Faces Soviet Force
What they accomplish in training skills may come in handy if Canada is called upon by its North Atlantic Treaty Organization ally, Norway, to supply assistance in that country which does face a powerful Soviet military force across its borders.

Canada has agreed in the event of an emergency to supply army and air units to Norway although some observers wonder if the Canadians would get there in time to be of any use.

But back home in Canada where potential foes are few and far between the Canadian troops also are to take on the less glamorous, but certainly important role of keeping an eye on the wildlife in the Arctic. The federal government family has decided that while the armed forces are up in the north, they may as well count the caribou herds and the musk-ox and the polar bears.

The United States does not recognize all Canadian claims to the Arctic and when the American tanker Manhattan was trying to prove the feasibility of moving oil from Alaska down the Atlantic coast, there was Ottawa concern of a U. S. "takeover" in the far north.

But movement of the Manhattan through the Northwest Passage was not really successful and the project has been dropped. Canadian fears over "excessive" U. S. interest have abated.

In fact, the concern of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau over preserving sovereignty in the Arctic is somewhat alarmist in view of the long history of friendly cooperation between the United States and Canada in the Arctic.

There is still close liaison on radar establishments and the two countries maintain joint weather stations. And many of the Arctic airfields and buildings were constructed by U. S. military forces during World War II.

Soviet Union interest in the Canadian Arctic seems confined mainly to discovering any techniques developed by this country toward making civilization in the desolate Arctic more viable.

Indeed the Canadian military can report they haven't seen any Russians anywhere in the north, unless they were visiting delegations invited by the Trudeau government.

FAMILY OF VOLUNTEERS. The Lyons family of 2104 Glen Drive is doing its part by volunteering for service to St. Elizabeth Hospital. Mrs. Betty Lyons, left, is an auxiliary member volunteer, and her daughter, Kenny, center, and her son, Bert, right, are candy strippers. Kenny helps on patient floors and Bert assists in the X-ray Department.

Illegal Aliens Cause Social Problems

By JAMES CAREY
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON—Some jump ship. Some are smuggled in. Some slip across the border. Some enter legally but overstay their allotted time. But in all cases they are part of the continuing tide of illegal aliens who come to America in search of jobs and have remained to create a massive social problem.

How many are there? No one knows. The Immigration and Naturalization Service picked up 420,000 in the fiscal year that ended June 30. Estimates of those who didn't get caught north by poverty and the lure of range up to two million.

Most are Mexicans, driven gringo gold—a few dollars they hope to send back to their families. They no longer seek work only on border area farms. Now they pour into Chicago, Los Angeles, Denver, New York, Milwaukee and other cities, seeking out employment in industry of any type of job they can find.

Because they are poor and desperate, the wages are usually low and stripped of fringe benefits.

Tax Dollar Costs
They are exploited and taken jobs that otherwise would go to unemployed Americans. They get on welfare rolls and use U. S. tax monies. Some get job training. It cost the United States $35 million last year to train them. The cost ranged from $50 to $200 per person.

Some guess do best the system but the biggest gains economically accrue to the employers who hire the aliens. This is not illegal now but it may be soon.

A study of the alien-entry problem launched by a House judiciary subcommittee in May is pointing toward a crackdown on those who knowingly hire illegal entrants.

Present plans are to impose several pending bills and submit them after the study is complete. The legislation is expected to impose fines and imprisonment on both the alien who unlawfully accepts employment and those who knowingly hire him.

Social Security Cards
Tightened procedures to prevent aliens from obtaining Social Security cards is another expected change.

The alien problem is not new—but its present dimensions are. In fiscal year 1964 only 41,587 Mexican nationals were picked up and expelled. In 1965, the total was 48,948. Then the figures began to climb—106,633 in 1967—107,695, in 1968—142,520; in 1969—188,572 and in 1970—265,539.

Of the 420,000 intercepted last fiscal year 348,000 were Mexicans. Immigration officials say the sudden spurt was caused by the end of the bracero program, in 1965 under which an assigned number of Mexican nationals could be brought into the United States legally to work on U. S. farms.

The program was abolished when it was determined that there was ample manpower in the United States for such work—a conclusion many farm employers still question.

Population Increase
But the Mexicans are coming anyway. Rapidly increasing population in Mexico and depressed economic conditions have made them willing to accept the risks involved.

Because of the enhanced border security imposed by the Immigration Service and Border Patrol, aliens pay smugglers to get them into the United States.

A commonly quoted going rate is $200 per person. A total of 20,000 aliens who tried this last year were caught.

Leonard W. Gilman, southwestern regional commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, described for a judiciary subcommittee what happens to some of these people.

"At a June 19 hearing in Los Angeles, he said: 'We have had many deaths (of aliens) from asphyxiation from being hauled in tank cars, being sealed in trucks, from being placed in the trunks of automobiles... without the protection of a legal entry they are at the mercy of this type of people.'

Smugglers Caught
Last year 3,000 smugglers were caught and prosecuted.

Gilman was equally critical of those who hire aliens, saying: "They (the aliens) are being exploited at great lengths in this country by people who know that they are aliens—by employers on whom we have loads of appreciating hundreds of aliens. They seek only aliens."

While Mexicans represent 97% of the illegal alien problem, other groups are involved, too.

Bicycle Club Plans 'Short Ride' Saturday

The Great River Riders, a newly-formed bicycle club sponsored by the Tri-Cities area YMCA announced Wednesday an invitation to interested members of the community to participate in a "short ride" on Saturday.

Tavern Owner Halts Burglary, 2 Charged

William Brown, 22, of University City, Mo., and Malcolm Jerome Clemens, 22, of St. Louis, were charged with burglary after a break-in at the El Capulano Lounge, 801 Jackson St., West Madison, at 3:40 a.m. yesterday.

James Brown, owner of the tavern, told police the keys to the tavern disappeared during the evening and after closing he decided to remain inside to prevent a burglary.

The owner said two men opened the tavern door and entered and he displayed a pistol and told them to stop. He then called police and held the two men at gunpoint until officers arrived, police said.

Parked Car Struck

A hit and run vehicle struck and damaged the parked car of Harry L. Boggs, 1827 Collinsville Road, Madison, Tuesday morning.

New Warning on Home Repairs, 'Inspections'

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott's Consumer Protection Division is again warning Illinois citizens to be cautious in dealing with itinerant sales people interested in making home inspections and repairs.

According to investigators in Scott's office, so-called "experts" in lightning rod maintenance have defrauded Illinoisans out of thousands of dollars and are a particular menace to elderly rural residents.

Based on evidence compiled in recent investigations, George Schaefer, chief of Scott's Consumer Protection Division, disclosed the method of operation used by fraudulent lightning rod salesmen.

"A crew will appear at your home claiming they are experts and have been sent to inspect your system. Borrowing the name of a legitimate business, they will get on the roof.

"When they come back down they will present a piece of burned wire which they claim came from the existing system and indicates a severe strike has been made by lightning. In truth, they brought the burned wire with them and concealed it on their person.

"Having convinced the owner of his good fortune in not having been completely burned out by lightning, they will attempt to sell a complete overhaul," Schaefer said.

In older systems, copper wiring is used. This is replaced with aluminum and the copper is sold for salvage.

The money for the copper, and have been sent to inspect your system. Borrowing the name of a legitimate business, they will get on the roof.

Why Americans own $54,000,000,000 worth of U.S. Savings Bonds.

One good reason is the Payroll Savings Plan. About three-fourths of all Bonds are purchased through the Plan. It's helping Americans save more money than they ever dreamed they could.

That's because the Payroll Savings Plan is such an easy way to save. All you do is sign up where you work and the amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's the easy way to build a nest egg.

You've got your reasons to save money. There's one great way to do it painlessly. Join the millions who are buying Bonds the Payroll Savings Way.

This astonishing eyeglass HEARING AID

HELPS YOU HEAR WITH NOTHING IN YOUR EAR!

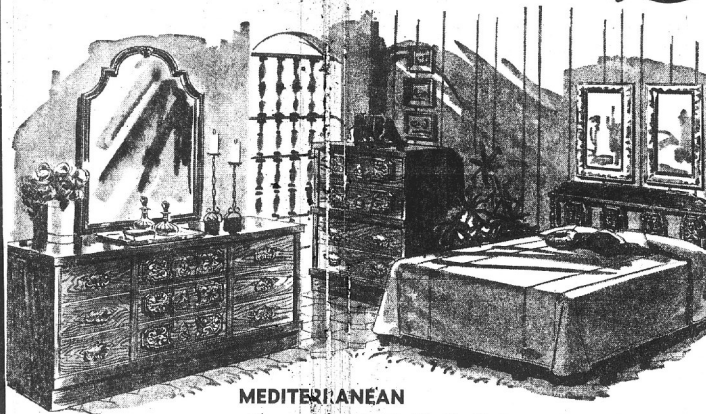

It is now possible for thousands of people to enjoy hearing again, with nothing in either ear! NO tubes, NO tubes, NO wires, nothing in either ear. For thousands this aid may prove to be the best possible way to hear next to nature's own ears. Instead of forcing amplified sound through the impaired outer or middle ear, the patented "Rx-880" utilizing bone conduction, delivers sound directly to the "hearing center," the inner ear. For many, even this technique may not be the answer. You must try it, if you are ever to know. The "Rx-

880" is the result of 33 years of research. Made possible by a marvelous transistor—a development of the Bell Laboratories. To discover if the "Rx-880" can help you, write today to: ROBINSON ELECTRONICS, 806 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo. 63101 or phone CH 1-0438.
